They bought their own plane to build up their flying hours in hopes of becoming transport pilots some day. Both have sent applications to T.C.A. Hope To Become T.C.A. Pilots, Bought Plane To Build Up Hours

Horses in the front field of the Coates farm, a quarter mile north of Queensville, are sometimes given to making a wild gallop to the far end of the field. A silver low-winged monoplane swoops down behind the barn, makes a smooth landing and rolls up between the Coates barn and farmhouse. The cattle remain quietly grazing because they seem to be used to such an interruption.

It is either Murray or Bill Coates coming in for a landing in their own two-seater plane. They both purchased an ex-R.C.A.F. Cornell trainer. Both Murray, 22, and Bill, 24, have their applications in for becoming T.C.A. pilots. They bought their plane in 1949 to build up their flying hours and this fall they each expect to have their commercial pilot's license.

Murray and Bill started flying in 1948 with the idea that they would like to be commercial transport pilots. A year later they bought the Cornell trainer from the Kitchener-Waterloo flying school.

"We think it is cheaper to own our own plane rather than pay for flying at an airport," said Murray. At present Murray has 135 flying hours and Bill has 130. They make their own repairs and do their own overhaul jobs on the plane, subject to government inspection.

TRADE FAIR MEETING

There will be a meeting of Trade Fair exhibitors and potential exhibitors in the arena tonight at 7.30 p.m. All those interested in the trade fair are urged to attend.

Pioneer Antiques For A Song, 100-Year Old Buggy Brought $1

When Thomas Porter bought Crown land on the sixth concession of King in 1850, he little dreamed that nearly 100 years later his old high buggy he bought for $100 would sell for less than $1. Nor did he foresee that an oxen yoke used to break the land on King township hills would be sold for $7 at an auction sale.

Thomas Porter was a pioneer who came from Yorkshire, England, in 1842 to York Mills, later bought the Crown land in King. An auction sale was held last Thursday for Frank Dove on the old Porter farm.

His wooden chest brought by sailing vessel from England, carrying his blankets and clothing, brought $2.25, sold to a farmer to be used as a tool chest. A later model buggy auctioned at 50 cents. A glass-front corner cupboard, hand-made in 1854 when the present house was built, bid as high as $13.50 and would have brought more had an antique dealer known its origin.

A grain cradle went for 50 cents and a five-prong wooden fork, 100 years old, was sold for 50 cents. A hand-made desk, bought to Canada in 1842, sold for $3. As relics of pioneer days, the prices paid were pathetically low.

The antique buggy, for which the owner has refused $25, carried Thomas Porter and his Irish wife, Jane Curry, whom he married in Canada, to the old Wesleyan church at Strathroy. It was used for many succeeding years later and Mrs. Joyce Porter Dove, granddaughter of the pioneer, recalls how she rode in the narrow seat between her father and mother. The buggy was built by Joseph Lund, a carriage maker in Teston. He probably built the wooden farm roller sold at a low price.

Prices for livestock, implements and grain and household furniture brought good price. A fine piano was sold to Mrs. Harry McBride but nine volumes of phonograph records went for $1.50 to another buyer. The total sale realized good average prices.

shows and usually are one of the features at the Queensville Sports Day when they drop toy balloons and prizes over the grounds. Bill won a $12 prize at Kitchener in a "four bag bombing" contest.

They usually keep their plane at Barker Field, near Toronto, but they fly it up to the farm and keep it there for several days. Their flying activities at the farm, of course, are subject to the crops. They had to wait this summer until the threshing was over since the field used for landing was growing wheat this year.

At present Murray is working on the farm and Bill works for a gasoline and fuel oil agent in Queensville.

TWO NEWMARKET SOLDIERS WOUNDED ONE CRITICALLY ILL

Two Newmarket soldiers fighting in Korea have been wounded recently. George Armstrong, North Newmarket, received a telegram last week that his brother, John Armstrong had been critically wounded. Word was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Denne, Newmarket, that their son, Bill, had been wounded in the hands and arms.

John Armstrong, who lived with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, North Main St., has been paralyzed in the left arm and both legs. The telegram did not say when he was wounded but that he is "critically ill".

Denne is with the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry and Armstrong is with the Royal Regiment.

OPTIMIST CLUB TO SPONSOR NEW CLUB, ESSAY CONTEST

The Optimist Club of Newmarket plans to sponsor a new club in a community in the North York district. The club also will be sponsoring a Newmarket boy to the oratorical contest at the London convention in the coming Optimist year.

These projects are part of a five-point program adopted by the executive and membership of the club at a dinner meeting Monday night. Last week Lt. Governor Bert Barnes from the West Toronto club attended an executive meeting outlining the five-point plan which Optimist International has proposed. The plan includes new objectives in membership, attendance, new clubs and boys' work.

FIRE AT FRASER'S

The Newmarket fire department was called to Jack Fraser's store, corner of Main and Botsford St. at 8 p.m. on Friday night. The store was filled with smoke and firemen soon found that the furnace pipes and chimney in the building were clogged with soot. The first fire of the season had been started in the furnace that day and the smoke backed up into the Jack Fraser store.

To Build Fire Hall Top Of Main St. Hill, Need New Fire Alarms

The top of Main St. hill was decided as the right place for a new fire hall by Newmarket council and volunteer firemen Monday night. Council approved of construction of a new hall previously and subject to the approval of the expenditure by the Ontario Municipal Board, it will be built on the site of the present fire hall at the corner of Main St. and Millard Ave.

Last week council discussed the water works property at the south end of Main St. as an alternative site for a new hall. This week Fire Chief James Coltham told members of council that the firemen favored the top of the hill because it was the most central location in town. There was a delegation of half a dozen firemen at the meeting.

The old fire hall and the former Veterans' Dug-Out will be torn down to make way for the new building which will be 48 feet in depth. Town Engineer Denne Bosworth said that if the department ever acquired a small aerial ladder, it might be a tight turn for the truck turning onto Main St.

"As long as cars are prevented from parking in the area, it will be all right," said the fire chief. The engineer said that a 48-foot building will allow plenty of room for loading at the back of the truck. He said that there should be at least 16 feet behind the truck when it is in the building. There will be an 11 foot apron in front of the new fire hall.

Firemen have offered to supply voluntary labor for completing the interior work if a second storey is built on the new fire hall.

Reeve Arthur Evans said that the town might as well go ahead with the installation of a new fire alarm system. A new system has been proposed in council before and consideration has been given to the type of system to be used.

"There is no use building a new fire hall unless we have a modern alarm system to go with it," he said.

Started Selling From Suit Cases Harry Stepak Opens New Store

Twenty-seven years ago, Harry Stepak used to pack a couple of suitcases of dry goods, board the old Metropolitan trolley in Toronto, and begin a two week tour of North York with his wares. He'd leave the trolley at nearly every stop and then walk the backroads from door to door.

Seven years ago, Mr. Stepak established a store in Newmarket, Harry's Dry Goods, at the corner of Main and Millard. Tomorrow, he'll open his new store at the former site of the Dominion Store on Main St., opposite Botsford.

It will be a proud moment for Mr. Stepak when the doors of his new store swing open. The interior of the store has been

New Disposal Plant To Cost $300,000

River Pollution Said Affecting Cattle, Real Estate Investment

A sewage disposal plant for Newmarket, to cost $300,000, is likely to be under construction by next summer according to Mayor Joseph Vale. In answer to forceful protests from property owners along the Holland River north of Newmarket, against river pollution from sewage, the mayor said that it would be "unlikely that a plant would be built by next summer but that it will likely be under construction by next summer".

Garry Thompson, who owns considerable property along the river near Holland Landing said that pollution of the river from Newmarket sewage has been harmful to his real estate investment for years. He warned council to take action immediately or else "we'll ask someone else to set a time to start and finish the project".

Percy Thompson, a farmer who has pasture land at the north end of Newmarket, warned council that there could be an outbreak of "black leg" in livestock at any time.

"You people in Newmarket drink milk from the same cattle that pasture along that river," he said. "And if there is an outbreak of poisoning among livestock, who is going to pay for it?" He said that he had inoculated his own cattle for black leg but that he had lost an animal last year. "The veterinarian said that it was caused by an infection from that river. The tannery sewage empties into the river and hides are used in the tannery from all over the world," said Mr. Thompson.

Mr. Garry Thompson said he wanted a decision from Newmarket and a prompt answer as to whether it would build a sewage disposal plant. He said that he had 119 cottages in his subdivision on the river and that none of the summer residents could fish, swim or use their boats because of pollution.

"In 1920 and 1921 you raised $47,000 for sewers and a disposal plant but there was never a disposal plant," he said. Ever since that time, Mr. Thompson claimed, he had been after council to do something about it.

Charles Evans, Bradford lawyer and veteran of Bradford municipal affairs, also spoke on behalf of Mr. Garry Thompson. He said that Mr. Thompson does not want to make trouble but that if it came to a show-down, it would be a matter of "more work for the lawyers".

Mr. Thompson has visited Newmarket council many times in the past to try and get action on a disposal plant. "In 1921 there was only two-thirds the population and the sewage was dumped into the river. Now the town has a larger population and the sewage is dumped into a mere creek," he said.

R. J. Rogers, a Sharon farmer whose land goes west to the river, also spoke for the delegation. He said cattle tried to get to fast running water to drink but that most parts of the river were a disgrace. It was also said that no species of fish could survive in the river.

Mayor Vale told the delegation that everyone knows the situation must be remedied. "It will mean a large expenditure for the town but we realize that it has not been fair to the north in the past. With the growth of Newmarket and the diminishing volume of water in the stream, we know the situation is bad. Two years ago we appointed a special committee to look into a sewage disposal plant. Mr. Evans was made chairman and is able to explain what has been done," said the mayor.

"We are not trying to cover up anything at all," said Reeve Arthur Evans. "An expenditure of $300,000 cannot be done over night."

The reeve gave a report on what has been done so far about a sewage disposal plant. He said:

"The first action of the committee was to recommend to council that the firm of Proctor, Redfern and Laughlin, Toronto, be engaged as consulting engineers for this project. This recommendation was accepted and Mr. Redfern met the committee and investigated the possible locations for the plant. A location was investigated directly north of the Davis Leather Co. on the west bank of the Holland River.

"At the same meeting the type and size and degree of treatment were discussed. It was generally agreed that complete treatment was necessary as the degree of dilution in the river was not sufficient to allow for primary treatment only. Whether to construct a plant to treat the municipal sewage only or to build one to treat both municipal and tannery wastes is yet to be decided.

"After the decision on the site, soil tests were conducted to a depth of 20-30 feet. Very poor results were obtained. The subsoil was found to be sandy, water-soaked gravel of unstable nature. This location was rejected.

"A new location was sought on the east side of the Holland River near the dump property. This land is very low and would require a lot of fill and the sewage would have to be pumped under the river. Land on the west side of the canal at the junction of the second concession and North Main street was investigated and found to be the most desirable and will be the proposed site unless a better one is found in the meantime.

"Bacteriological tests have been made both on the municipal and tannery effluents on two separate days about two days apart. These tests are on file and show the type and strength of sewage to be treated. The quantities of sewage have been measured and future expansion estimated. The design capacity of the plant will be from one to one and one half million gallons per day.

"With this information at hand we are able to say that the cost of the plant will be approximately $300,000 and that we require complete treatment such as that produced by a 'biofiltration', or an 'activated sludge' plant."

Mr. Evans went on to describe visits made by the committee to disposal plants in Cobourg, Oakville, Lindsay, New Toronto, Etobicoke, Grimsby, Aurora, Clinton and Swansea. The committee was also assisted by Dr. Berry of the Department of Health.

"The committee conferred with the Davis Leather Co. about working arrangements and we agreed to the segregation of costs. However, further discussions will have to precede a final agreement," he said.

Mr. Evans said that the committee had considered one method of paying for the costs, 50 percent by debenture and 50 percent by sewer rental charges. Possible sewer rental payments could be from the tannery.

Mayor Vale said that the levying of costs would be the problem. There are spotted areas throughout the town without sewers, he said, and ratepayers in these areas could not be expected to share disposal plant costs equally with the rest of the town. "We've got to work out a way to charge the heaviest users the most," he said.

Mr. Percy Thompson said, "I think you fellows are just putting up a bluff." He reminded councillors that he had been "hot under the collar" about the situation previously, that he either received a shrug of the shoulders from Councillor Bowser or an agreement that "the situation is terrible" from Councillor VanZant. He said he has an investment of $4,000 in cattle which are in danger.

Mr. Garry Thompson said that he had lost faith in council previously, that he believed he was unwelcome on previous visits to meetings, that he would be convinced that there would be action only when he saw it. "I have seen Deputy-Reeve Spilllette about it before and he just said 'Yes, Garry, something has got to be done about it.' But I've got to protect my investment and a lot of other people have to as well."

NEW DELIVERY SERVICE

Whitchurch Sets Up Independent Tax Board

Whitchurch Township council took a new departure on Thursday evening in setting up their court of revision to deal with the 1952 assessment roll.

An independent court of three men was named to sit. They are L. P. Evans, Ed. Logan and Earl Toole, all former reeves of the township and well acquainted with the municipality. Date for the court was set for Oct. 27, at 2 p.m.

Clerk John Crawford reported to council that some dozen appeals, most of them for small amounts, had been registered so far against the assessment.

Reeve Ivan McLaughlin reported on a recent meeting with Aurora council concerning a change in the standby time to be paid the Aurora fire brigade for attending fires in the township. Aurora is negotiating for the purchase of a new fire truck and were advised by Whitchurch that they should present definite figures of cost to the township council before setting any figure to cover the standby time.

Payment was authorized to Geo. Sproston, north Whitchurch, for one sheep killed by dogs, in the amount of $30. A lengthy discussion was conducted with a representative of Briggs Construction Co. concerning the work on the new north Lake Wilcox road, and some action is expected this week.

Road Supt. Davis reported that the surface treatment on the Musselman's Lake road had been completed.

Date for the annual nomination meeting was set for Friday, Nov. 23, with election on Monday, Dec. 3. Polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. A vote was required to settle the issue concerning the date of voting.

Councillor Baycroft introduced a motion to set the date for Monday, Dec. 3, while Councillor McCarron countered with an amendment calling for polling day to be on Saturday, Dec. 1. Councillor Legge supported Councillor McCarron in his amendment, but the vote failed to set the date on the first Monday.

This is a change for Whitchurch Township where voting and nomination dates have always been at the end of the year.

Jrs. Compete In 'Royal' Judging

The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, which takes place this year from Nov. 13 to 21, has tried in its own way to answer the question posed in the saying, "And who shall judge the judges?"

The fair's answer is that at the Royal judges are really judged.

Every year scores of young competitors, including residents of York County, put their judging skill to the test at the fair in livestock judging events. Their judging ability is in turn judged by veteran livestock experts.

This year a team of three from York will compete in one of Canada's toughest judging competitions, the inter-city livestock judging event. They will try to break a jinx that has kept York County teams winless since 1930.

Until 21 years ago York had won the inter-county event's Jefferies Bull memorial trophy three times and holds second place on the list of winners with three victories. Local teams won in 1923, 1926 and 1930.

Other winners of the competition have been the counties of Peel, Oxford, Wellington, Prince Edward, Durham, Perth, Middlesex, Peterborough, South Simcoe, Kent and Grenville. Kent County's team will defend the championship this year.

Competitors in the inter-county event are required to judge heavy horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine. Each member of the winning team is given a silver miniature of the trophy by the Royal. A gold medal is presented to the highest ranking individual contestant in each class of livestock.

The Robert Graham memorial trophy, the E. H. Stonehouse memorial trophy and the F. K. Morrow scholarship are offered as awards in three other livestock judging competitions.

The Graham trophy is up for annual competition in an event that calls for entrants under 26 years of age to judge two classes of light horses and two classes of heavy horses. The Stonehouse trophy is awarded each year to the individual having the highest score on dairy cattle in the inter-county event, and the F. K. Morrow scholarship, which has a value of $300, is awarded to a member of one of the inter-county event teams. The scholarship must be used to help defray expenses at an agricultural school.

Mr. Norman Chatterly, president of the W.A. Deaconery, addressed St. John's W.A. on Sept. 19 held at the home of the president, Mrs. Maurice Beynon. Plans for the forthcoming ba-

IT'S A Woman's World
BY CAROLINE ION

Once again plans are underway for a Community Bazaar in Newmarket. This, the third annual one, promises to be the biggest yet.

Sponsored by the Newmarket Handicraft group, the bazaar is unique in that it brings the crafts of not just one group, but of many organizations and individuals to the attention of the public. Smaller church groups, who would be unable in their limited membership to handle a complete fall bazaar, have their table or booth in the community bazaar. Invalids and handicapped individuals, who derive their means of livelihood in part from the sale of their handicrafts, have a new outlet in this annual event.

Among those who have notified the sponsoring organization that they will be participating in the bazaar are the Catholic Women's League, Rudy Renzius, St. Paul's W.A., Evening branch, Christian Baptist Church auxiliary, David Hood, Frank Vandenberg, York County Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion, Miss Lenora Cutting, Canadian Girl Guides, Mrs. G. F. McCannan and the Newmarket Handicraft group. Other groups are considering the venture, but have not decided definitely.

Those who are interested in entering their crafts or hobbies for sale in the bazaar are requested to contact the convener, Mrs. George McNelly, as the remaining space is limited. As in previous bazaars, 15% of all sales is retained by the Handicraft group to cover expenses. Arrangements have been made to have the town hall on November 12 so that the displays will be set up the evening preceding the exhibition. Attention is also called to the fact that the bazaar is being staged this year in November. Those planning to enter articles in the bazaar have less than six weeks in which to prepare for the event.

Weavers Tops
Ontario weavers have moved into first place in Dominion-wide competition held recently at the Guild of All Arts, Scarborough. In this exhibit of weaving (from each of the ten provinces in Canada) were two entries from the Newmarket Handicraft group.

For many years, weavers in Quebec, the Maritime provinces and British Columbia vied for first place position. But a scant six years since weaving in Ontario was rejuvenated through the introduction of courses under the provincial department of planning and developing, this province's weavers have topped the list.

All provinces were well represented at the display. In Ontario, each group which had taken the government's course in weaving entered two articles. Mrs. George McNelly entered a scarf and Mrs. E. A. Mitchell a table setting for the local contributions to the show.

Heads of each of the provincial departments dealing with adult education and handicrafts were present for the show.

An attempt is being made to help weavers throughout the province to become better acquainted. In this way new ideas in the use of color and design may be passed along from one group to another and the comradeship of a common interest will continue the present enthusiasm in weaving.

In September, members from the Newmarket group accompanied the Spinners and Weavers of Toronto to St. Catharines where the weavers of that city acted as hosts for the day. Following a scenic drive, a meeting was held in Jordan. The scene of the meeting, one of the old Second houses judged to be about 200 years old, was a fitting background for the discussion of these age-old arts.

Some fine examples of weaving were displayed. A lively discussion, followed by the serving of refreshments, brought a pleasant day to a close.

BY GEORGE HASKETT
Newmarket Sports Editor

Light-up time tonight with twin-bill as a starter.
Pike Cabell will bring in his win-minded Schomburg
Solbustlers for a go at Town League all-stars.

Early game sends Bell against Specialty. Latter pair of teams got the nod for their volunteer work on the fights. Thank you, gentlemen. Proceeds from tonight's double-header go to the floodlight fund coffers. Require approximately $800 to polish off the job. Dig deep, folksies.

Plans for a second twin-bill Tuesday are being shaped up. It is hoped to line Zephyr, Simcoe title-holders, and our town league champs, the Cabmen, in the second set-to. Pine Orchard will tackle Office Specialty, town league finalists.

It's congrats to Andy Closs and Aurora town league championship side, the Merchants-Stoutts Motorsmen. Thank you for coming through, Mr. Closs; gives our batting average selection a 6th average. Picked Clossmen to win, ditto Triple Sevens but lost our shirt going along with the Pollocks, Hares, and the rest in Simcoe warfares. Ouch. Gradually getting in coaches' all-star selections for the Simcoe circuit. Hey Percy Richmond, Art Starr, Joe Case and Pete Jacobs! Where are your selections? Come on men, let's have 'em soon. Thank you. Hope to publish the coaches' dream team next week.

Ice here on or about Oct. 18. Are you happy? Juveniles organized last week. Bill Young, Carl Gabel and Fred Thompson are putting in the ground-work for busy group and O.M.H.A. play. Bohmer Groves is coach with Ken Broughton, chief assistant.

'Too cold to think about swimming but now's the time to get plans lined up for an early go at it in the spring. Lions Club are now picking up cost and installation info. This is one project that will call for all-out volunteer co-operation from every town citizen and organization. Leastwise, that's the only way the job's going to get done and kept within the budget.

The Stuart Scott pasture was literally bursting at the seams over the past week as public schools track and field events were run off. Hats off to Principal H. A. Jackson and his staff for their grand work.

..Fred Speer, boys' sports director at N.H.S., must have some shakes of a gridiron squad to defend the North York laurels won last year. N.H.S.'ers stepped right into Barrie last week and won 23-5 over Barrie's strong collegiate ball carriers.

Frank Gregoire is busier than a cat with greasy paws on a tin roof. Frank has his hands full with Aurora high school track and field, Eckhardt trophy meet and on the side is girding Aurora's gridiron forces for the North York league competition.

Incidentally, for the first time in history, the Eckhardt meet has been run off twice in one year—and Aurora could possibly win it twice, having sky-rocketed through the spring events. Newmarket is not competing in this fall's events, leaving Richmond Hill and Aurora to battle it out for the coveted trophy emblematic of track and field supremacy in North York.

Next Thursday closes wrestling schedule. It sounds like a dilly. It will be blue-blooded Lord Athol Layton vs strongman Yukon Eric and a top-notch supporting card.

Win, lose or draw, you just have to get up on your hind legs and give a root, too, for our Optimist baseballers. The bantams are now in the semi-finals for all Ontario against Acton. The pee-wees have to bump off Merriton to stay in and make a semi-finals berth. From far-off tri-county circuit comes word that Sutton Greensox and Stouffville are fighting it out this week for the league championship. How about Newmarket getting set to go at these old friendly rivals on the big diamond next year. Anybody interested?

FRACTURES WRIST

Bobbie Wilson, a member of Newmarket Optimist bantam baseball team, fractured his left wrist in a pre-game warm-up to Tuesday afternoon's O.B.A. contest. Bob was chasing a ball thrown by a team-mate back of home plate screen and tripped over a bicycle. He was rushed to York County hospital for an x-ray where it was found he had suffered a fractured wrist.

News Of NEWMARKET LEGION

Our Legion auxiliary is in the midst of a big drive for new members. Their need is apparent. With a membership at present of only 33, these ladies have been of great value to our branch. For example, last year, the president, Mrs. Robert Bunn, came to our general meeting and presented us with a cheque for $400 towards the newly inaugurated building fund. This year our auxiliary has given us $75 towards the cost of our blinds, as well as buying the material for the drapes and making them up for us.

We, of Branch 426, have been fortunate this year in acquiring quite a number of new members, mostly veterans who have just moved to our town. To the wives of these new members we say, "Join our Ladies' Auxiliary." In its fifth year, this year, under the capable guidance of President Zena Tobey, the auxiliary already has a program laid out that will make great demands on the time and efforts of each of these 33 willing workers. A bazaar, scheduled for around Christmas time, is being arranged now. A monthly euchre takes place on the first Thursday of every month and three or four catering jobs for banquets have been agreed upon for October. Auxiliary meetings are held in the Legion hall the third Thursday of each month. We, of Branch 426, consider our Ladies' Auxiliary our greatest asset.

Another one of these mystery nights, Friday night. Come up to the hall, fellows, and see what's cooking. Smells like a drumstick. You have the clues; we can't tell you more.

Next Wednesday is our general meeting. Like the last one, this meeting will also start at 8 p.m. sharp.

The Legion hall is being taken over by the amateur show committee on Saturday, Oct. 13, for auditions. The committee, we are told, is still accepting entries.

We would be pleased to have

Juveniles Organize De-Elect Bill Young

Another division of the blossoming hockey season got a shot in the arm Friday. The juveniles, who travelled under the "Imperial" banner last year, held their organization meeting Friday at the arena. Bill Young was re-elected president. Carl Gabel was returned as secretary-treasurer, and Fred Thompson was named manager.

Bohmer "Jing" Groves will coach the team again this winter. Spitfire winger, Ken Broughton, was named his coaching assistant. Roy Smalley was again chosen trainer, and Ted Robinson will again chair the transportation committee. Advertising chairman is Cecil Taylor and finance committee headman is Jimmy Walker with Ernie Bennitz his chief assistant.

Over 300 Entered In Schools Track Meet

Well over 300 public school students from the kindergarten five-year-olds right up the line to eight graders vied for the ribbons and prizes in this year's public school track and field meet. North York's largest track and field extravaganza required the best part of two days to complete and countless hours of preliminary work by teachers and pupils alike.

Featured were Locksley Stuffers' triumph in every event in boys 12 and 13 years old coming, and Graham George, nimble foot work that earned him a win in every event in boys 14 years and over section. The events ran off without a hitch and a great deal of credit is due Principal H. A. Jackson and the staff of four town public schools.

Only Lady Coach

Softball is finished. What would be more natural before King Winter takes over than to hand out a few bouquets to the folks who do the work and suffer the headaches around the softball teams.

A team, 'tis said, is only as good as its coach or manager. Well, as everybody is aware, Mount Albert ladies won the Lake Simcoe Junior Ladies Softball League diadem for a second straight year. Naturally, a fair share of the credit goes to the coach, manager and chief over-seer. In the case of Mount Albert, it was a one-man job, or should we say, a one-lady job.

That lady was Mrs. Gladys Rolling. Mrs. Rolling can make one claim that no one can duplicate - the only lady coach in North York - feastwise the only successful one. So it's well done, Mrs. Rolling. You're our Hashman and Roxy Theatre pass nominee for this week.

Optimist Minors 1 Down In O.B.A. Competition

PEE-WEES

Newmarket Optimist pee-wees suffered their first loss in the O.B.A. campaign Saturday. Don Warner, Jack Hamilton and Frank Hollingsworth and company made the long haul to Merritton and absorbed a 12-6 loss.

The Optimists had a shaky start. Before they realized there was a ball game on, Merritton had our forces hanging on the ropes as they stroked out a 12-2 lead in the fourth. From there

BANTAMS

Newmarket Optimist bantam baseballers are on the spot. They must win in Acton Saturday to stay in the O.B.A. hunt. They suffered their first set-back in O.B.A. competition at the fair grounds Tuesday, dropping a 19-6 decision to Acton in the first game of a best two out of three O.B.A. semi-final contest.

Acton had a glow on early Tuesday as they thundered for eight runs in first two innings. The visitors further dimmed the Optimist hopes of a recovery with a slashing five-run attack in both the sixth and eighth frames.

PEE-WEES STAY IN O.B.A.

Almost as dramatically as the Giants' win over the Brooks, Newmarket Optimist pee-wees stayed in the O.B.A. race with a 3-2 win over Merritton at the fair grounds Wednesday. Third and deciding game of the series will be played at the fair grounds Monday afternoon, 3 p.m.

John McGuire belted a home run in the sixth to crack a 2-2 tie and win the game. Wayne Crouche's squeeze bunt gave the Optimists' run one and Bob Keffer singled to score Ken. Cassavoy for run two. Jack Cain pitched outstanding ball on the Optimist hill.

Light hitting hurt the Optimists. They picked up only six hits off John Cunningham on the Acton hill. Only in the third were they able to collect more than one hit per innings. They got three then but only one run as the visitors' speed-ball artist snapped off the budding rally with a pair of strike-outs. The visitors' moundman claimed 15 strike-outs in getting his win across.

Bill Mair, Don Thoms, Bill Forhan, Earl Lothian, Grant Morton and Jackie Mills collected the Newmarket hits. Optimists scored twice in the first and single runs in third, fifth, sixth and seventh. John Cunningham and Alden Holmes were Acton's hit-aces with three each.

Turn Floodlights On Tonight Present Twin Opening Bill

Harry "Pop" Holmes, ardent sports booster in the early town league scraps, offered a trophy to the league's leading hitter and one for the most valuable player. It was Mr. Holmes' pleasant duty recently to put the trophies in the right hands. Mick Smith, Bell Telephone coach, won the batting crown with a stupendous 630 mark. John Sheddlowick, Specialty fire-balling ace, was named most valuable player by a vote of the managers. The trophy winners and donor are seen above, Mickey Smith left, Harry Holmes center and John Sheddlowick right.

Newmarket's already bulging sports history will have another important chapter added tonight. The newly completed floodlight diamond at the Fair Grounds will be officially opened.

Ten Records Fall At A.H.S. Track Meet

Aurora high school is loaded with talent for this year's defense of the Ekhardt Trophy. That much information was gained from the school's annual track and field meet last Wednesday.

Ten records fell last before the onslaught of this season's crop of fleet foot runners and soaring jumpers. Most notable of feats was Lynn Easterbrook's leap of 20' 2 7/8" in the senior running broad. Ross Linton established a new standing broad jump mark with 9' 2 1/4".

In the intermediate shot-put Neil Ethridge hefted the shot 49' 7 1/4" to set up a new record. Russ Clarke established the only new junior record, putting the shot 39' 5 1/4".

Noel Cox, Suzanne Gray and Laura Mae Coulson set new marks in the girls' events.

Ross Linton collected six firsts, two seconds and a third to win the senior boys' crown with 56 points. Lynn Easterbrook was runner-up with 43. Ron Geddes won intermediate honors with 49 points, second Ron Knowles with 31. Jim Preston ran six firsts and a second to 47 points for junior championship. Bud Sutton was his closest rival with 39 points.

Russ Clarke dominated the juvenile competition with 47. Alan Childs was runner-up with 24. In the girls' sector, Florida Beynon had a 39-37 point advantage over Grace Hoare for the senior championship. Nancy Taylor amassed 40 points for the intermediate crown. Nancy Beckwith was runner-up with 35. Velma Hamond stacked up 36 points to nose out Laura Mae Coulson, 34, for the junior honors.

On the alleys

Phil McInnis topped the pin-spilling brigade in the Monday Night Town Ladies' circuit with 615 (228-197-190). Five hundred or better scorers were Pearl Codlin 592, Edna McGrath 550, Mary Austin 544, Ede Hall 539, Claire Pollock 539, Netta Smalley 527, Marion Stark 520, Mona Dean 512, Nora Gibney 502, Agnes Gordon 500. Blue Bonnets recorded the lone sweep, whitewashing Hot Rods 4-0. Coons bumped off 450's 3-1 and Jets enjoyed a similar margin over Wildcats.

Hazel Bennitz got back in form to head the scoring in the Thursday night ladies' loop with 574. Other creditable efforts were turned in by Myrt Dunn 563, Ella Wilkins 538, Ede Hall 523, Vi Dales 520, and Olive Hughson 508.

Davis Leather were below par last week. Tops was Geo. Ingledew 597 (215-185-187). Others were Dan Casey 573, Frank Bothwell 568, Len Burling 566 and Leo Forhan 565. Bennington's six shellacked Tansley 7-0 to take over the league leadership. Bothwell's rollers clipped Andy Cullen's crew 5-2. Present standing is Bennington's 15, Bothwell's 11, Cullen's 10 and Tansley's 6.

Hot shot shooter among the Hoffman Leaguers last week was Don Scott who rolled up 660 with a high single of 204. Murray Allen was runner-up with 599 including a 254 single. Machine Shop hung the crepe on the Vorlon 5-2. Press Shop squeezed out a 4-3 win over Sheet Metalers.

N.H.S. Tops Barrie 23-5 On Gridiron

The N.H.S. gridiron forces strode into Barrie and walloped the Barrie Collegians 23-5 in an exhibition football contest on Tuesday.

Wayne Robinson latched onto a long forward hauled by Jerry Hugo to go over for a major score in the opening quarter. Jerry Hugo converted and the N.H.S. never looked back. Jack Vance loped over the Barrie line for TD's in both the second and third quarter, one of them converted by Hugo's educated toe to give N.H.S. a 17-0 margin.

The teams battered majors in the final quarter. Wayne Robinson skipped around right end for the N.H.S. Jerry Hugo converting. Nearing the final whistle, Jack Garner, Barrie back-fielder, broke through for a Barrie major.

Coach Speer appears to have power and speed to burn in the back-field and the line stood firm against all Barrie assaults. The N.H.S. will match plays and tackles with St. Andrew's this Friday in a pre-season exhibition tilt. The North York Secondary Schools League will open Oct. 12.

N.H.S., W. Robinson, J. Hugo, B. Hanna, D. Trivett, J. Vance, T. Gilbert, R. Ingram, D. Huntley, R. Connell, D. Smith, J. Clements, A. Sinclair, H. Hutchinson, B. Bell, A. Lunzelo, D. Budd, B. Forhan, R. Shaw, J. Shropshire, K. Wheeland, B. Saunders, F. West, A. Gibney.

The four teams are wedged in a tight battle for leadership. Sheet Metal 8, Machine Shop and Vorlon 7 each, and Press Shop 6. Hoffman bowlers were saying good-bye to one of their top flight pitchers last week as Les Woolven departs for the west.

Joe Magani headed the scoring in the Bradford men's league last week with 679. Ted Giffin ran a close second with 676. Art Evans pencilled a 627, Steve Simone 624 and Ernie James 609.

For those bowlers interested in Saturday, holiday and opening night bowling, the Brown-Brymer combo at the North End Alleys are offering a clock prize for the lady and man bowler with three high games from now to the first of the year.

While Yukon Eric - Fred Atkins main bout Thursday was supposed to provide the fans with the main bill of fare, most fans - 937 payees - were there with one purpose, to see the Zebra.

The awning-striped, hooded-horror left the fans something to remember him by as he cut another notch in his well-knocked gun by spreading Bill Stark of Oshawa in 18 minutes. The Thing (The Zebra) got under Stark, hoisted him up, flopped him on his back and then pounced with the full weight of his 305 lbs. of muscle(?). Stark folded flatter than a pancake.

In the early part of the supporting card, Sonny Kurgis and Pat Flanagan displayed the best wrestling. After 13 minutes of spirited warfare it was ruled no contest because of an injury to glamour boy Kurgis.

That brings us to main bout. A classy show between two Maple Leaf Gardens top-notchers, Fred Atkins, the Australian champ, and Yukon Eric, the north country's bone-crusher. Atkins hammered the bewhiskered Yukon. It had one ending - Yukon was nicely mangled after 16 minutes. Eric got a few back, stomping and chopping Atkins to the canvas after 9 minutes to even up the show. It was Alaskan who came back strong in the saw-off to win the third and deciding tilt.

Thursday, Oct. 11, will write finish to this season's grapple and groin fun. Arena manager Stan Smith has fixed up a card of bouts that should tide the diehard wrestling fibbers over until the grapplers move in again next summer.

As main-bouters, Lord Athol Layton, the darling of the pink tea set, and Yukon Eric, the Alaskan lumberjack, will provide the action. Yukon, 'tis said, prefers raw meat to tea any day and would like nothing better than to nibble on some blue-blooded type.

The semi-final will send Timothy Geohagan, the Irish strongman, and Irish sleeper hold specialist, through the ropes after another big broth of a lad from Erin's Isle, Dangerous Dan O'Connor.

The supporting bout in the three-bout card will toss Pat Flanagan against strongman Teor Morgan. Sounds like a classy card as a finisher of wrestling for this season.

Bill "Joint" McComb, Newmarket representative in big time hockey, figured this week in the never ending shuffle of pro hockey talent between Chicago and Detroit. Bill was with St. Louis "Flyers", Chicago American Hockey League team last winter, and last week was sold to Detroit. Bill had to report to Detroit on Tuesday. Whether he will stay up with the Red Wings or go to their Indianapolis farm team wasn't known at press time this week.

A twin-bill softball session is planned as an opening attraction. In the start off game, Bell Telephone and Office Specialty, two town league teams, will meet. In the second game, Schomberg "Sodbusters", champions of the Peel-York Softball League and conquerors of Cookstown, South Simcoe champs, and Markham "Aces", finalists in the Markham Township circuit, in a post-season series, will go against the Newmarket Town League all-star selection.

All proceeds from tonight's twin-bill will go to the floodlight campaign fund. Another double-header attraction is planned for next Tuesday.

Starting time for tonight's game is 7 p.m.

Floodlight Committee Chairman Charles VanZant renewed the campaign today. The successful conclusion of the campaign to install lights at the Fair Grounds is another triumph for community betterment. The work couldn't have been accomplished without the help of the volunteers.

A special thank you is due the Bell Telephone and Office Specialty employees. Their work has been invaluable in the campaign. The campaign secretary, Mrs. J. H. Manning, Office Specialty, has been very helpful in the campaign. The campaign has been a success and the lights will be installed by the end of the year.

Floodlight committee was composed of Charles VanZant, chairman, A. H. Topham, vice-chairman, Ken Fisher, treasurer, Geo. Haskett, secretary.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

Gilkes' Popular Orchestra Third Season At Graystones News About "The Body":

Five years ago a group of three or four musical enthusiasts from Aurora sought out a well-known Newmarket pianist and urged him to start an orchestra and be its director. Their mission of persuasion proved a success, and thus originated the famous local group of players known as the Don Gilkes Orchestra, which has gone from success to success.

For the third successive year the Don Gilkes orchestra has been engaged by the management of the Graystones, Aurora. It was given this engagement from a batch of applications which included five Toronto orchestras.

This orchestra is in constant demand by Lions clubs, Alumni associations and industrial organizations, including Collis Leather, Sismans, and the Hart Manufacturing Company.

Among the originating group who persuaded Mr. Gilkes to establish an orchestra under his leadership was Mr. Jim Willis, well-known Auroran and saxophonist, and to whom we are indebted for data concerning the orchestra and its composition.

Orchestral Ensemble
Now in its fifth year, the popularity of the Gilkes orchestra is proved by an increasing request schedule which the maestro and the members of his group are often hard pressed to fulfill.

These requests come in from communities large and small in the surrounding districts, and include those from private parties, wedding events, for square dances, and many other festive groups. Such engagements are usually filled by a section of the orchestra composed as follows: Don Gilkes, piano; Norm Storey, bass; Lloyd Gilkes, drums; Charles Williams, trumpet and trombone; and Jim Willis, tenor saxophone.

The full Gilkes' orchestral ensemble includes trumpets, Ray Oman of Toronto and Bill Ranson of Aurora; trombone, Charles Williams, Aurora; saxophones, Lee Barwick, (former orchestra leader, who led his own group for several years) is the Gilkes' vocalist; saxophones, Dave Johnson and Jim Willis, Aurora; pianist, Don Gilkes; bass, Norman Storey, Aurora; drums, Lloyd Gilkes, Newmarket, who is a nephew of the director.

Such is the composition of the "famous players" Gilkes' orchestra. And with all this musical activity, Mr. Don Gilkes still finds time for a day-time full-time job as general manager of the (Garfat) Cut-Up Chicken organization.

And what is the secret of the popularity of the Don Gilkes orchestra? Mr. Willis described it as the "fun the orchestra gets out of taking its music and its engagements seriously."

Trinity Church
We always read with great interest any literature we receive concerning with the activities of our local Anglican church.

There has been much activity recently in connection with the 105 years' celebration of the parish life of Trinity church, Aurora, and the literature received from the Rev. K. D. Whatmough was very welcome. Mr. Whatmough is a man of gracious personality. His church and rectory are outstanding landmarks in the history of Aurora.

John Mosley was the founder of the Anglican church in Aurora, and Mosley street, one of the main streets, is named in his honor.

Married Happiness

To normal married people there is nothing more satisfying than to read about the married happiness of others, especially when such happiness has been tested over the long years and which, when they have been passed, seem "but as months."

Recently we noted the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Dr. Albert and Dr. William H. Cross, which took place on September 6. Dr. Albert is the daughter of the one-time editor and proprietor of the weekly newspaper, The Aurora Borealis, and a niece of the former editor of the Era and Express, Erastus Jackson.

A note we have received in connection with the above anniversary says: "Together they went through the mother Chiropractic College at Davenport, Iowa. Together they have helped thousands to a healthier and better life. A long and happy life is something of which to be proud, and today Dr. Albert M. and Dr. William H. Cross are demonstrating that a loving, harmonious life keeps them young and strong."

Aurora Schoolmates
Mr. Ashton G. Stevenson of Florida, son of the proprietor of The Aurora Borealis, who became famous in the United States as an inventor of mechanical devices in the production of newspapers, pays tribute to the chiropractic skills of his sister and mother-in-law in these words: "I would have been dead 20 or 30 years ago but for their ministrations. Now I am 80 and going strong; I fear I am going to stay too long."

At the anniversary celebrations, Dr. Albert and Dr. William had with them guests who were present at their wedding 50 years ago, including some of Dr. Albert's schoolmates from Aurora, while her husband had a former schoolmate from Deseronto.

Fifty Years Ago
We have received from Mrs. B. Willis, the well-known former organist and choir conductor at the United church, a historic brochure of which there cannot be many copies in existence today.

It is the official programme of the festivities held in Quebec in honor of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, who became King George V and Queen Mary. Welcomed by the City of Quebec, the royal tour of that period began on Monday, September 16, 1901.

The frontpiece of the official program contains, besides the photographs of the royal visitors who became nine years later king and queen, pictures of four men of varying degrees of fame. These were that great Canadian premier and statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his excellency, the governor-general, Lord Minto, his honor, the Lt. Governor, L. H. Jette, and the Hon. S. N. Parent, premier of the province and mayor of the city of Quebec.

MAYOR BELL'S PRESS BAN

It would be interesting to know what motives inspired Mayor Bell to ban the press from seeing the file of council business transacted at each session? Of course we do not admit that Mayor Bell had either a legal or a moral right to instruct the town clerk to keep out the press, in view of a council resolution, unanimously passed on July 24, 1950, and which, up to this date of writing, has not been rescinded.

Mayor Bell is the chairman of council, not its master. Mayor Bell is also a servant of the citizens, not their master. But his instructions to the town clerk to refuse the press access to the file of council business means two things. The first is an overruling of a council resolution without the authority of council; and the second is a denial of material information for the citizens of Aurora.

We do not know what action council will take in regard to the first of these two things. If council sits down under this snub by its chairman, who appears to think that council resolutions do not matter, it will prove itself unworthy of its trusteeship on behalf of the people. The mayor's job in council is to act as its chairman and not its boss.

Our own surmise is that council will call the mayor to account for overruling its authority. His highhanded action could mean that he was afraid to test the opinion of council and acted on the assumption that he could get away with it without later correction. If that presumption is correct it will be interesting to see council's reactions to it.

A simple statement of the whole matter is this: On July 24, 1950, council passed a unanimous resolution, which has not been rescinded, and acting on his own authority, Mayor Bell cancelled it. That is the matter in a sentence.

WHAT WERE HIS MOTIVES?

The question of the motives behind Mayor Bell's highhanded action could be discussed from more than one angle. His action certainly promotes many conjectures. We were assured that his ban on the press "goes for the Banner, too". Of course we agreed that Mayor Bell could hardly ban our own paper without at the same time banning the Aurora Banner, of which he has never denied being a part-owner.

The curious circumstance in that connection is this: In January, 1950, when Mr. Bell was inaugurated as Mayor of Aurora, he denounced what he described as an "iron curtain" having hung around the press in its relations with council news and the public. He cried out for more publicity. We promised him that he would get it and we think we have kept our word.

That was 15 months before the Aurora Banner was bought out in circumstances of the greatest secrecy; a secrecy concerning which every effort has been made to sustain it. Notwithstanding the secrecy in which the paper was bought, we think we could accurately name three of its principal shareholders, and we suggest again that Mr. Bell is a part-owner of the Aurora Banner.

It could be that one of his motives in forbidding us access to the file of regular council business is a feeling of irritation against ourselves for the criticisms we have felt obliged to write regarding his conduct of business as mayor.

Our attitude has not changed since our association with the ERA and EXPRESS began. We felt it our duty to criticize Mayor Bell while we were writing for the Aurora Banner; and in March of this year he paid us the gracious compliment of throwing a copy of the paper under the council table.

PUBLIC DENIED INFORMATION

Mayor Bell's action has already denied our readers information on council matters which it was their right to know. In our "Council Sidelines" in this issue we refer to a long letter from the town solicitor on the zoning by-law, from which we would have quoted but for Mayor Bell's ban.

Then there was the resolution giving permission for the building of the Cut-Up Chicken plant, which would have interested the 127 petitioners who opposed it. We cannot quote from the town solicitor's letter, or the above resolution, for the reason that Mayor Bell has refused our access to the council files.

It is impossible to get lengthy resolutions and letters written down while they are being read at the council table. Our practice in the past has been to go to the town clerk's office and take copies of material of public interest from the council files to ensure the fullest information and accuracy.

Mayor Bell's ban is therefore denying the citizens of Aurora information which is their right. He has interfered with the freedom of the press. It will be for council to decide whether the public is to have the information which is their right, or whether council will endorse Mayor Bell's ban by rescinding its own Resolution of July 24, 1950.

Whatever happens in that regard one thing has been made plain. By his highhanded action in interfering with the freedom of the press, Mayor Bell has revealed his hand, and shown that he does not want full information of council business published. Will his next step be an attempt to keep the press out of the council chamber?

To what lengths will his dictatorial impulses carry him?

COUNCIL SIDELIGHTS

Council Sits And Struggles Over A Zoning By-Law Brew Then Reports "No Progress"

These comments are concerned mainly with matters before the special meeting of council held on Monday night, Sept. 21. As we mentioned, in our report of council business last week, we could have given our readers fuller information had not Mayor Bell given instructions that we were not to have further opportunities of looking through

There was, for example, the new by-law which alters the time between nominations and elections. That time has now been cut to 10 days, and these ten days include two Sundays when no canvassing is done by those seeking office in council, the public school board or the hydro commission.

There was some correspondence, too, from which we would like to have quoted for the benefit of our readers. All council business is public business and the voters are entitled to know all about it. But the man who said there had been an "iron curtain" between the public and the council before he came to office has now himself set up an iron curtain.

1950 Hangover

The by-law introduced by Councillor Davies, altering the period between nominations and elections, came out of a resolution moved by former Deputy-Reeve Harry Corner at his final council meeting in December 1950. Mr. Corner said he wanted to do something for the people of Aurora before he left council. What he did was to lop off by resolution part of the time allowed for canvassing on the part of candidates.

The resolution has been hanging fire since December, 1950. On Monday night, September 24, Councillor Davies piloted through three readings the by-law necessary to give legal effect to Mr. Corner's resolution. What good can this new by-law limiting the time between nominations and elections do for Aurora? You would almost think that members of council don't want the electors to have enough time to decide what candidates they want to place in office. You'd think they like rush tactics.

It is impossible for enough public meetings to be held in eight days, or for the candidates to make contact with the electors. But the by-law was passed in a jiffy, with nobody asking any questions.

Zoning By-Law

This was the greatest rignarole we have had to suffer under for many a long day. There were pages and pages of it. And when the long reading was over none was the wiser for anything it contained. It was a typical piece of planning board verbosity. Its author, or authors, must have been drunk on words.

Listening to the high-falutin'

COUNCIL REPORT

Long Slow-Motion Session Most Of Council Business Handed On To Committees

A regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday night, October 1. Deputy-reeve James Murray, Councillors Davies and Pringle were absent from this meeting. All other members of council were present.

Following the presentation of accounts and correspondence, council heard a lengthy report on a petition recently submitted by a few residents on Kennedy street west for the installation of sanitary and storm sewers on the westerly portion of that area.

The town engineering department stated that it would be very costly to install both sanitary and storm sewers, a contractor having estimated that it would cost over $10,000 for the installation of the sanitary sewers only.

A lengthy discussion took place regarding this project, and in the end it was resolved that the engineer make a further survey of the area, and bring in a further report to council.

The projected water supply from Wellington street west to the town limits was also under discussion. Councillor Corbett argued that it would be a good thing to employ only local labor, pointing out that such local labor was available in consequence of lay-offs from the Collis Leather and Hart companies.

committee for a further report.

Letter From Mr. Hoffman
A detailed letter was read from Mr. S. Gordon Hoffman regarding his former application for appointment as industrial commissioner for the town.

Mr. Hoffman emphasized the need for new industries locating in Aurora, and the advisability of close co-ordination between the council and the board of trade on this matter. Two appreciative letters were read in regard to the assistance Mr. Hoffman had given in the locating of the J. P. Fielding and Don Bassett companies in Aurora.

Mayor Bell pointed out that as councillor Davies was not present they could not do anything in the matter that evening. It was resolved to hand Mr. Hoffman's letter over to the industrial committee, of which councillor Davies is chairman.

Protest Hydro Building
A letter was read from the board of trade regarding the new hydro building on Mosley street.

AURORA PERSONALITIES

Don Glass

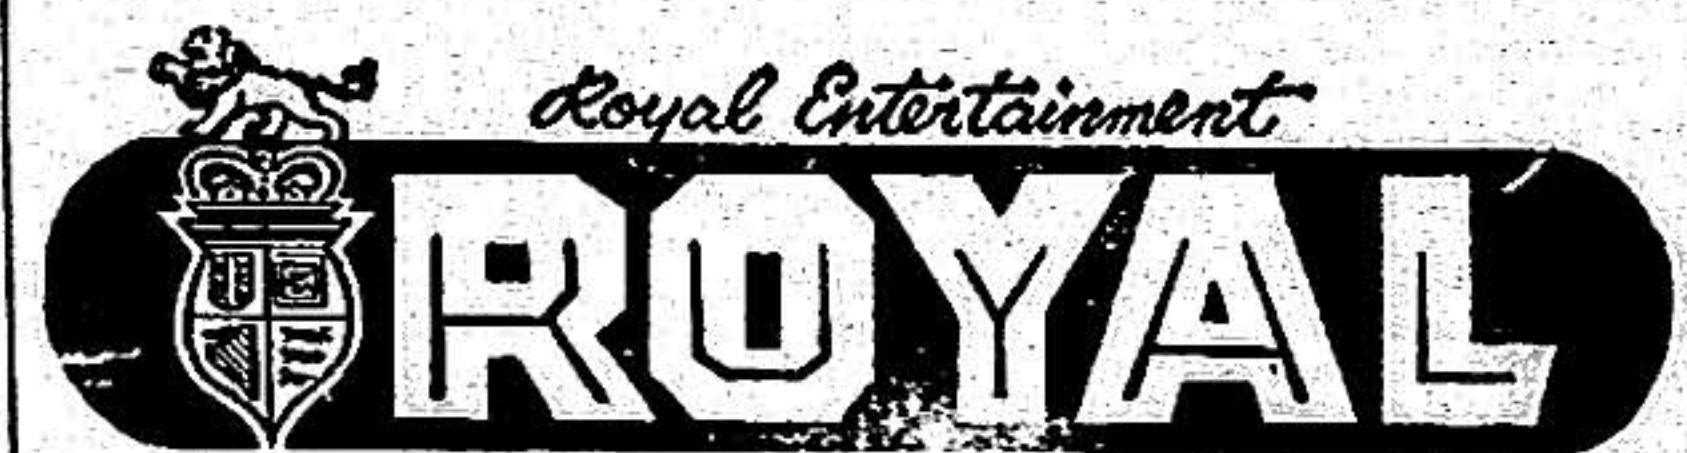

At the November, 1949, nominations meeting we listened with increasing interest to an address by a young man who spoke almost without notes. He dealt with numerous aspects of municipal life, and he did so with clarity, understanding and enthusiasm.

We liked his forceful way of referring to local municipal and social problems to which he obviously had given much careful thought. There was nothing showy about him, but he was firm in his opinions. He was saying what he believed to be true. Sincerity was the dominant note of his address. When he sat down he received a burst of applause.

Not knowing who he was, we turned to a man by our side and asked the name of the speaker. "Don Glass," he replied. Heated The Foil.

There was a crowd of record proportions in the high school auditorium that night, over 300 citizens being present. We were pleased to hear that it was a record gathering in Aurora's municipal history, for over a period of some weeks we had been writing on, and urging a greater interest in local council matters.

When the municipal elections were over another record had been set. Page 12, Col. 6

Pages from the Editor's Notebook

The past week was a melancholy round of plugging chinks and doorways, and assembling stove pipes as we spent our leisure time buttoning up for the winter. These were jobs we expected to do at our own pace in the several weeks we thought lay ahead before the cold became uncomfortable.

We've not lately been in touch with the weather prophet on Georgina Island, nor have we observed too well the thickness of the squirrel's coat, but our neighbor has a book of lunar tables, from which is forecast the weather for the year, and he tells us a mild winter is in the making.

And too, reading of the report of scientists investigating the biography of a glacier in Alaska, we learn that the winters of the last century or so have generally been milder. As a by-product of their studies of the glacier, they hope to ascertain the possibilities of a new ice age. After last week, we would suggest they pack up and come home. The ice age has arrived.

It's indecent to set the husband of the house off on his search of stove pipes, storm windows, and other armour against winter so early in the season. Why, the leaves are just beginning to hint of their coming glory. By all the rights of husbandhood, we should have another three or four weeks before we start splitting kindling and shovelling coal.

We did persist in our belief in our neighbor's lunar tables, pointing out to a shivering wife and sniffling kids that it would be nothing short of a gross betrayal of trust to light the stove. We were given no encouragement at all. And so finally, we started on the pipes and it turned out, as usual, a job which lasted all week. Either the stove had moved or the pipes had shrunk; the combination which had fitted so nicely last year was an impossibility this year.

And, with the pipes finally joined, we find that the centre length was dripped on through-out the summer and has rusted through and so must be replaced.

There are, or rather, there were, a few apples in our yard and we were inspired by memories of the cider of our youth to undertake to make a batch. It was quite an experience.

We borrowed a cider press from a friend and set the children to gathering the fruit. After some experimentation, we got the gadget together and called all hands to witness the effort. The effect was quite impressive. We leaned our back into the handle of the grinder. The kids dumped the apples in. Pieces of apple went flying. When the container was full, we started to give it the squeeze while everyone stood about waiting for the first drip. When it came, we caught the first of it in a glass, and never was there a brew so entrancing.

Well, we spun the grinder and turned the press all afternoon while the small fry gathered up the fruit. We had visions of huge demijohns of cider in the pantry but, when we totalled the make, it had shrunk surprisingly and all of us were so full of apple juice we squished.

Went off to see the hunt on Saturday but all we saw were a few strays breathing their horses and looking for their fellows, and along the Glenview sideroad, clots of cars full of enthusiasts. Ever so often, the cars would start up and race a few miles along the road on a false trail, and then back to the original parking space. Still no sign of the hunters. It was a lovely day for it anyway.

OCTOBER 1, 1926

The town band has made wonderful progress the past summer under the leadership of Mr. Paul Arlitt. The musical programs on the fair grounds were greatly appreciated. It is something to the credit of the members as well as the leader that our band came sixth in the competition of amateur bands at the Toronto Exhibition out of 14 contestants, since it is only a little over a year since it was re-organized and over half of them never played in the band before.

Many people were aroused early Sunday morning by the noise and rush of fire trucks and autos going up the road. A message had been sent into the village that Jackson Villa, one of the summer hotels at Jackson's Point, was on fire. As the building had not been occupied for a couple of weeks the cause of the fire is a mystery. The building was owned by Mr. Robinson of Cannington and was completely burned down. Less partly covered by insurance.

The Sharon young people deserve great praise for the presentation of the play entitled "Forest Acres," in the town hall last Tuesday night in the presence of a full house. The parts were well taken and the stage scenery and costumes were very appropriate. Miss Margaret Davis was the life of the play, which was frequently applauded.

Sir Henry Thornton promises that one of the notable events in Canada's diamond jubilee year will be the opening of Toronto's new union station. It hasn't been 60 years in building, but few can remember just how long it is since the project was first mooted.

OCTOBER 4, 1901

Toronto news: The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall will leave the train which brings them to this city at Parkdale station. The platform will be extended 175 feet and other structures erected to accommodate the crowd. The Ontario government will make a grant of $1,000 towards this reception accommodation.

Excursions on all lines are announced to Toronto next week on account of the Duke's visit. The city is more elaborately decorated than ever before and the occasion will be one long to be remembered. The G.T.R. will run a special train from Toronto to Collingwood on Friday night, leaving the Union depot at 10:40 o'clock, and Parkdale at 10:50.

This is the season of the year when much climbing is done in the orchards and people should take warning about taking care.

Owing to the festivities in Toronto next week, at which a number of our people have signified the intention of attending, the Harvest Home in connection with the Methodist church has been postponed till Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Regular meeting of the town council next Monday evening.

The time has surely come when ladies should insist in having pockets in their dresses. They have been victims of a foolish style long enough. By the time they have all lost a purse or two they will wonder why they submitted to the decree of fashion so long.

Mount Albert: Mrs. Wallace's millinery opening on Tuesday was largely attended. The trimming of Miss Hustin, her new milliner, is being highly spoken of by the ladies.

Very heavy frost yesterday morning and the leaves are falling fast.

THURSDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF OCTOBER, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE

GETTING NEW INDUSTRY

From time to time there are rumors that a new industry may locate in Newmarket or its immediate vicinity. Occasionally, town council members drop hints that they are hot on the trail of a prospect. But despite it all, there has been no new industry in Newmarket since the Guild Industries located here some months ago.

Industry in a country town has become synonymous with prosperity and the concern of the citizen is understandable, specially since this summer when the tanning industry began to feel the impact of reduced markets and men were laid off in Newmarket and Aurora, and in Aurora, one firm closed down entirely when hit by the government's credit restrictions.

There is no question that the solvency of a town is very largely assured by a variety of small industries. Events have shown that Newmarket could do with more sources of employment. Hence the frequent question of what the council, as senior body in town, is doing about industry.

We are not sure just what the council is doing about it. Negotiations with firms likely to settle here are carried on in an atmosphere of deep secrecy and only announced when success is assured. Possibly, there is no alternative to such an approach. With most municipalities in Ontario looking for industry, premature publicity could tip the apple-cart.

We know too that Mayor Vale, and no doubt, other members of the council, are quick to follow up prospects which they may hear of, but competition, as noted, is keen and judging from results, Newmarket's approach to the question of locating new industry here is not adequate.

Other municipalities alive to the advantages of industry, have issued booklets publicizing their virtues as industrial sites, or have employed industrial commissioners to track prospects. They use advertising and all other means available to attract attention to themselves. In the process, they have turned the rivalry among municipalities for new industries into an exceedingly competitive undertaking. In this competition, Newmarket is lagging.

Is there any reason why a citizens' committee could not be formed, a committee whose sole purpose would be to attract new industry? Such a committee might seek out new industrial sites, make contacts with industry, follow up prospects, and in general, act as salesmen for the town. There is in Newmarket excellent possibilities for such a committee through the three banks and their connections, through the present industries with their wide contacts, and through the many citizens with special knowledge.

Bringing new industry to Newmarket is not simply a matter of "selling the town" as an ideal municipality in which to locate, but of also assuring the prospective employer of sufficient labor, transportation facilities, nearness to market and raw materials, and a suitable site for his plant. The accumulation of this information and providing these facilities, is a lengthy job and there are few occasions when all the requirements are on hand.

If the job of bringing new industry to town were given to a committee with a wide representation, the bringing together of the prospective employer's requirements would be easier accomplished than by keeping the prospect a secret in council.

HOW IT IS DONE IN UXBRIDGE

The village of Uxbridge offers an example of what an enterprising group of citizens can do to bring new industry to their community. During 1950, the Chamber of Commerce and 39 business men in the village subscribed $1,050 as the initial capital of the firm, Uxbridge Development Co.

This concern undertook to promote and develop industry in the village by acquiring business and factory sites and buildings by purchase, or by constructing such buildings for sale or for rent to prospective manufacturers who might wish to locate in the village.

The company has now acquired a one and half acre site and begun construction of a one-storey factory building.

The company was incorporated December 21, 1950, and recently offered 2,000 common shares, par $10, and the proceeds of the sale will be used to finance the building. The company is intended primarily as a community effort for the development of the community, but its policy will be to earn a reasonable return for the shareholders.

The project, it seems to us, is an admirable mixture of self interest and community effort. Is there any reason why such an undertaking should not be attempted here? The advantages are many. Making the location of industry in the village a profitable possibility, not only for the community but for those who are promoting the undertaking, is a practical way of encouraging the greatest effort.

MEANING IN DOLLARS AND CENTS

Why seek industry? There are almost as many different answers to the question as the number of times it is asked. Some reasons are immediately obvious; the variety of industry is an assurance against mass unemployment; industrial pay-rolls are heavy contributions to commercial well being; industrial taxes are needed to finance the new schools, and other public requirements of a modern municipality.

But just what does a new industry mean in dollars and cents? The United States Industrial Bureau gives some idea with the following estimates: A new industry employing 150 men requires and supports an average of 393 occupied homes; 33 retail stores; half million dollars in retail sales; 6,600 acres of additional farm produce; 24 additional professional men; 22 school rooms and 18 teachers; 320 cars and the services for them; two and half million dollars in additional taxable valuation.

As stated, these are only estimated figures and some allowances must be made for differences between Canadian and American standards, but the figures do give some hint of the economic effect upon a small town of a good sized industry.

And the figures also point out the requirements of a new industry. The 22 school rooms and 18 teachers, for example; or the housing. A municipality seeking new industries must be prepared for an expansion of its school system, indeed of virtually every civic service. Unless a municipality is prepared to foot that bill, it is foolish for it to seek new industry. Presumably, the taxes of the newcomers will eventually pay the cost of these services, but the municipality must make the original payment, and if it is heavy, it can knock a big hole in the municipality's credit.

CHANGE ON MAIN STREET

Harry's Dry Goods is moving from the top of the hill to the former site of the Dominion Store this week. Last week, Newmarket Sports and Cycle traded locations with Bill's Shoe Repairs. Robert Yates Jewellers are moving into the former Newmarket Fruit Store location. McCaffrey's Flowers recently moved to a Main St. location. A new hardware and men's clothing store have occupied the new stores opened along the south end of Main St.

With these moves, there has been a steady program of renovation and improvement. Harvey Lane has put in a new store front and modernized the interior of his drug store, as has Howard Brice his grocery store. Many other merchants have undertaken programs of improvement of store facilities and service. The amount of change is an indication of their awareness of public taste and their own desires to make a creditable showing.

It is often said that the appearance of its business section is the index of a town's character, and if this is so, Newmarket can take pride in its showing. Granted that there is much that can be done, but let us also admit that much has been done or is in the process of being done to maintain Newmarket's reputation as a shopping centre.

It's too bad some of the articles sold at the Porter sale in King last week couldn't have been bought by historical societies or other groups interested in preserving old Canadiana. As near as can be ascertained, all sales were to private individuals and included an ancient sea chest and an ox yoke.

Mayor Vale told a deputation from Holland Land- ing that a sewage disposal plant might be under construction by next summer but the members of the deputation can scarcely be blamed if they should be dissatisfied, even skeptical. For years, the dumping of raw sewage into the river by Newmarket has been a sore point with everyone living downstream, and for years, the issue has been avoided by town administrations. It would be a crowning stroke of irony if, by next summer, the plant could not be built because of lack of materials or some similar emergency.

Office Cat Reports Catnips By Ginger

The beginning of every season is almost like a New Year; you feel like resolving things. For instance, in the spring you resolve that this year you are going to keep ahead of the weeds, keep the grass short so it won't be so tough mowing and get the storm windows off early.

But usually the weeds are growing in the garden in a profusion, the lawn is ahead of you and the storm windows are still on in June.

I'll bet that everyone has said to himself this summer that he would have the storm windows washed and on the house by the end of September this year. And some day in November during a swirling blizzard you will see the homeowner frenziedly fastening down his windows, unwashed because the Bon Ami freezes on the window pane and the wind is blowing too hard anyway.

But it's nice to be enthusiastic about the autumn. I get awful hungry in the fall when I smell chile sauce and pickles. You get an enthusiasm for pumpkin pies, squash, chestnuts and turkey dinners.

You get full of a fall energy for doing things. You feel that the home should be stocked up with preserves and vegetable gourds and squash, pickles and pumpkins. People don't stock up enough these days for the cold weather ahead.

The other day, I says to Isabella, I says, "We should be like the early Puritans this fall so that we won't have to be running down town every five minutes for something to eat."

"The home," I told her, "lacks initiative in these modern times." Raising my fist in the air for emphasis, I shouted, "What is happening to us. Are we becoming a bunch of softies?"

And she took my advice to heart, too, a rare occurrence. It made me feel proud, as I left for the football game on Saturday afternoon with the aroma of pickles and grape jelly still in my nostrils, that our little home was being stocked up for the cold weather ahead. And, reflecting in the bleachers on that beautiful fall football afternoon, I thought to myself that it really took the male mind to bring things back to a sound basis once in a while.

But as it often happens, the male advice was not appreciated. As I returned from a pleasant afternoon at the football game I was met by a tirade of words at the front door.

"You and your early Puritans. Here I slave all afternoon in a steaming kitchen over a batch of pickles and you just wander off to a football game. You and your enthusiasm about preparing for the cold weather ahead and are we a bunch of softies? What about the storm windows? They are still sitting out in the garage and it will probably be snowing next week."

"And what about the furnace pipes? They haven't been cleaned in two years. And the grass is still growing, you know. That last cutting wasn't the last cutting you hoped it would be. And the flower beds should be cleaned up and leaves put on them. And you said you were going to paint the floor of the back porch last May. If you hadn't gone fishing nearly every weekend, you might have had that done."

You see? Women are always trying to let you know how efficient they are and how lethargic and lazy you are. They can never seem to get away from reality, always harping on some insignificant detail which really has no importance in the greater scheme of things.

Women, unlike males, can never escape from the small things.

by "Dairy Farmer" The Top Six Inches

Nof that the price of hogs has taken one of those queer dips and slipped down below $30 cwt., the hog producers are making very indignant speeches and are trying to organize and in every respect go through the painful process the milk producers have been through for years. The only difference is that it takes that special $29 feeling to get them going and we venture to suggest that as soon as the indignation is turned into a $30 and $31 feeling, the enthusiasm will fade and if it ever reaches $34 again, the hog producers, or those fellows who are raising the loudest of outcries, will stop again and say: "Well, we are still in the best of the farming enterprises and everything will be hunky dory."

You may gather from this that we have very little patience with this type of attempt to organize. A man in any business must make up his mind about what he wants. If he is satisfied with this so-called free market then the fact that the market slipped shouldn't upset him. And if he objects to these periodical raids on the prices, then let him object consistently.

What is the use of saying that prices are set after the processed meat is sold, just because the price is $29 and not say so when the same process is used but the price is high.

Months ago, we pointed out this very same thing. But then, pork prices were rising so nobody cared. Now that prices have fallen because of a lot of breeding stock on the market, and now that suckling pig prices have tumbled on some local sales to seven and eight dollars and we are assured quite a scarcity to come, we would like to say that prices will go up again and the hog producers will be happy again.

And just to get it all off our chest, we would like to point out where we think the trouble is. The trouble is that the hog producers have fallen for some of the most elaborate and beautifully organized public relations and publicity campaigns that any industry could organize.

There are yearly field days organized by some of the packers. There are arrangements for township groups to visit plants. There are educational lectures, and free meals and prizes for the best AR carcass or score. Anytime there is a bacon hog show, the packers will specially kill some hogs and bring the carcasses to these shows. It is all done to persuade and convince the producers what the real carcass should look like. Undoubtedly there are other attempts and successful ones to make the packing houses the friend of the hog grower.

Well, whether you like it or not, you can only accept so many free meals and free this and free that before you lose your independence. If our memory serves us right, three or four years ago, the hog prices were not set by the week. They are now. We repeat what we said before, that no producers should be expected to ship to market and then see the price set after the whole week's run is available and can be readily seen.

Maybe the hog producers like it that way. Maybe they appreciate the magnanimous free education provided by the man who buys their product. Well, then just let it go. Maybe we, the milk producers, shouldn't be jealous of the harmony that exists between the producers and the buyers of hogs for most of 52 weeks a year. We don't know. We suppose some day a board made up of producers and buyers will set prices, say Tuesday morning or Monday night, and broadcast it on the radio. Or set the prices once a day, as it is done in some vegetable growing districts. Maybe someday the producers will have a way of storing and distributing offerings of hogs, to assure a steady and ample supply at a fair price. But right now the hog producers have to look to their own organization if they are looking for the guilty party.

The Story Of SHARON

By
ETHEL WILLSON TREWHELLA

This is the seventeenth instalment of a continuing "Story of Sharon" from its founding to the present. The story was written after almost two years of research and will, we believe, be a major contribution to knowledge of the past. The remaining installments will follow weekly.

Burying Ground on the Hill
On the hill to the north of the village is another burying ground. For many years this has been known as the Selby burying ground. It was the property of the Wesleyan Methodists and at one time a chapel stood within the enclosure.

In the county registry office at Newmarket may be seen a faded document, an "Indenture of a Deed of Gift bearing date, 6th of January, 1809, between John Weddel of the Township of East Gwillimbury in the County of York in the Home District of the Province of Upper Canada, yeoman, of the one part, and Joseph Sutherland, Humphrey Finch, Martin Stiles, Andrew Clubine, William Tilor, Bathuel Huntley and Nathaniel Homes, Trustees, of place aforesaid, of the other part, whereby the said John Weddel have given, granted and conveyed unto the said 'before named gentlemen' or their successors, as Trustees forever, all that certain tract or parcel of land situate lying and being in the said Township of Gwillimbury East, being composed of a piece of the east end of Lot No. 14 in the second concession of said township." It then continues with detailed measurements. Said indenture is witnessed by Abraham Lepard and Joseph Hollingshead and was registered by Thomas Ridout the seventh day of March, 1809.

This cemetery, as are many others, is in a sad state of forgotten care. It, too, is almost as old as Sharon; together they have come through the years and here lie others of those who had given of strength and courage to settle and develop the township of East Gwillimbury. To enter this cemetery one must almost fly and the earth provided such uncertain footing that a personal entrance was not attempted.

A few names from the stones have been obtained. There is that of William Lockhart, a merchant of Sharon, who died in 1856. His memorial was erected by his friends in Sharon and vicinity. George Driver is another well remembered in the village. Others are Evans, Selby, Barker, Wright, Rogers, Willson, Arbuthnot and Hill. A number of inscriptions bear mute witness to the epidemics which swept Sharon.

The following letter of historical interest was received from Mr. Reg. Selby of Toronto along with permission to publish. It was written from Sharon, Queen Street, 22 of May, 1819. "Dear Brother and Sister:

I received your letter of the 29th of November on the 6th instant. I can't tell you the cause of it being delayed so long unless it is on account of the superposition. When you write again direct your letter to Yonge (Yonge) Street, County of York, Upper Canada, Yonge Street being a noted place, your letter will have no difficulty in coming then and a letter coming to York or Yonge Street for me, I would receive it immediately.

"I was happy to hear of your well-doing and I have reason to be thankful that I, my family and friends, have been in a tolerable state of health since I wrote ye last. . . . Only aggravated in mind sometimes at the sight of the murderer of my brother who still has the assurance to reside in Newmarket. However, I am still blessed with fortitude enough to keep both my tongue and hands off him. I have committed him to the Great Judge of all things, which will, no doubt, punish the mur-derer sooner or later. You requested to know where Robert was buried. I had him buried in the burying ground at the Methodist Meeting House, joining my land (Selby burying ground at Sharon) and had his grave paled in and painted. I can see it as I sit by my fireside. I wrote Robert's wife's uncle in New York immediately after the unfortunate affair took place, wishing him to write home to his wife. I concealed from him the cause of his death for certain reasons. The people in Geneva (N.Y. State) at my unfortunate hope and the murderer has a great many enemies in so much that he never travels alone so that I have . . . but he will meet with his desery before many years go round. However, we will leave that sorrowful affair for the present and hope for the best.

"I was happy to hear of the encouragement that Doctor Straughan (Strachan) gave you when he was in York. I went to see him last fall but he was not at home. But now that you have sent me the particulars, I shall go down on purpose to see him on the subject of the reserve next week or the next after when I hope I shall be able to send ye a good account. However, I should be glad that ye would come back again for I think ye could do better here than ye can do in the States. I would be glad that ye would return and I will do what I can for ye. I have got houses, so that ye would be put to no expense with respect of that until ye could take yourselves better. We moved into our new house last fall and we find a great deal of comfort in it. There is such a good house on Queen Street and I feel more attached to the place than I ever did now that I have my buildings up.

"I should not have wrote at present only on account of having a good opportunity. John Pearson is going on a visit to Pennsylvania so I send my letter with him.

"I shall write ye again as soon as I see Dr. Straughan to know what he will do for ye. It is in his power to be a good friend as he is one of the members of the executive council and he is a gentleman of his word without doubt.

"We are sorry to hear poor little Thomas isen sowell again. Sally and the children join me in love to ye all. No more at present.

Yours, Brother Thomas."

This letter was addressed to Mr. John Evans, Palmyra, New York. Robert Selby was accidentally shot while driving his horse past a place where a charivari was taking place. Methodism in Sharon Survey in Upper Canada continued and settlers penetrated deeper into the hinterland where the missionary efforts of the apostles of John Wesley provide an appreciable part in the story of pioneer life. How fortunate, that in the passing of years, the pages of time may be turned back to the journals and records religiously kept by those gospel messengers, where a renewal of perspective will project into a clearer focus the value of those consecrated labors of the early Methodist circuit riders.

The historic background of Canadian Methodism lies close to Sharon. The following notes extracted from reports bring a very good picture of the vast distances and isolated habitations which these men attempted to bridge. In Sanderson's History of Methodism, Nathan Bangs reports in 1805 that "on Yonge Street which is a settlement extending northward from Little York for about 30 miles, there are no Societies, (Methodist). All the field was new and uncultivated except some Quaker neighborhoods." On this Yonge Street circuit in 1810, "John Reynolds had buckled on his armour afresh and at the close of the year reported an increase of 50." Again of this same circuit in 1823, John Ryerson said it "was harder to work than any I had yet travelled. Our circuit extended from York to Lake Simcoe and eastward to Major Willmott's beyond Bowmanville." In 1824, "to cover the vast area from West Gwillimbury to Nelson, Daniel McMullen was enlisted.

Prayer meetings were multiplied throughout the circuit. Hickory torches lighted the way through the forests. Sermons were followed by prayer and conversions." Egerton Ryerson, in his diary of 1825, relates: "Our circuit (Yonge Street) embraces York, Vaughan, King, West Gwillimbury, Whitchurch, Markham, Pickering and Scarborough—the roads bad beyond description, accommodations of the most primitive kind—but we were received by the people as angels, our ministrations being their only supply of religious instruction." In 1827 Anson Green says in his autobiography: "I have now been round most of the 27 appointments in eight townships: Toronto, Trafalgar, Nelson, East and West Gwillimbury, Barton, chester and Saltfleet. We have six churches and one in Ancaster where all may preach."

In 1828 Newmarket and Lake Simcoe are listed as a separate circuit with John Beatty as minister and a membership of 345. In 1829 the Newmarket circuit included East and West Gwillimbury, and in 1833 further mention is found from Father Corson wherein the Yonge Street circuit was 50 miles by 25 miles and included the three Gwillimburies. At this time four local preachers, Holden, Watson, Moore and Appleford, aided in the work.

A bill appeared likely to be passed in 1829, at York, which would permit the Wesleyan Methodists to keep a register of births, marriages and deaths. The Christian Guardian of August 29, 1932, states that the Methodists at that time were the most numerous, there being 14,901 members, of whom 1000 were Indians.

That the Wesleyan Methodists early were on Queen Street has already been established from data obtained locally, the deed of gift from John Weddel and the letter written by Thomas Selby. About 1814 David Willson referred to them. In the Wesleyan Missionary Report for 1829 there is mention of a collection at Queen Street of one pound, fifteen shillings. The Christian Guardian of January, 1931, contains a letter written by James Aylward in which he speaks of the Sunday-school on Queen Street of which he was superintendent. He also refers to a small library contained there.

The Missionary Report for 1855-6 lists Sharon as a branch of the Holland Landing mission which was part of the Barrie district. This report reads in part: "The bounds of this mission are chiefly within the township of East Gwillimbury. It is a newly organized field of labor, having been set off in its present form at the Conference of 1854."

There is a record of the donors, 1855-6, Sharon branch: John Terry, Judah Doan, Robert Brammer, Ebenezer Haines, Adam Montgomery, total givings two pounds, seven shillings, five and one-half pence; for 1856-7, John Terry, Judah Doan, Mrs. Brammer, William Simpson, A. Soutter, . . . Edmunds, Jacob Beller (or Belfry), William Moran, total three pounds, seven shillings, four and one-half pence.

The ministers at Holland Landing mission from 1854-65 were:

1854—Andrew Edwards
1855—George Cochran
1856-7—George Richardson
1858-59—Thomas Hanna
1861—Abraham Dayman, David Jennings
1862-4—Alexander Drennan, James Laird
1863-4—Alexander Drennan, James Laird, Nelson Burns, B.A., Richard Large
1865—William Hewitt, Joseph Locke
1866—John Sharon and Mount Albert
After the union of Sharon and Mount Albert the ministers listed are:

1866—William J. Hewitt
1867—Christopher Hamilton, John W. Totten
1868—Christopher Hamilton, William Pierce
1869—Christopher Hamilton, Henry M. Manning
1870—William Irwin, John M. Smith
1871—William Irwin, John Deacon
1872—Continued in Mount Albert and Sutton

An interesting feature from the late 1870's on, is the Report of the Property Committee, telling when any church was given permission to buy or sell property. Also this report of 1855-6 is the first discovered of the mention of Sharon in relation to the Methodist church, and nothing has been obtained as to when the chapel in the burying ground on top of the hill was abandoned. But the Wesleyans for some time continued their services in the temperance hall until the New Connexion Methodist church was built in 1867, when the two bodies united.

After the union of 1883, Sharon became an appointment on the Queensville circuit, Bradford district, except for an interval of three years when it was part of the Newmarket circuit. The ministers serving this appointment are listed below:

1884-5, Queensville circuit—John Lynch, T. W. Leggett. (Mr. Lynch died during the year.)
1885-86, Queensville circuit—N. Wellwood, A. Bedford
1886-87, Queensville circuit—N. Wellwood, W. R. Jamieson. (Families contributing to the missionary fund are: Trench, Curry, Doan, Lundy, Lepard, Thompson, Irving.)
1887-88, Queensville circuit—G. S. Hunt, one to be sent
1888-89, Queensville circuit—W. F. Ferrier
1889-90, Queensville circuit—W. F. Ferrier, John E. Gardiner

survives, the beloved dowager Queen Mary, mother of King George VI, for whose recovery to health and activity millions of loyal subjects now ardently pray.

Musical Program
There are many pages in the musical program of that historic occasion, beginning with "God Save The King" and followed by "O Canada." Mrs. Willis tells us that she learned to sing "O Canada" in French, and that that is the way she still sings it most easily.

As we have remarked, there cannot be many copies of that great event of 50 years ago surviving. The one we have been pleased to see in an excellent state of preservation.

Cagey Practices
An editorial in last week's Aurora Banner contained this introductory sentence: "The Banner was honored this week in being asked to cover the meetings of one of the town's public service bodies regularly." In the same paragraph it was stated that "those meetings" had not been regularly covered by the press, although there had been "no intention or desire on the part of members of the body in question to keep things hidden from the public." The chairman of the organization complimented the Banner on being "fair."

No mention is made of what "body" or "organization" is to be "covered" by the Banner. The reader is left to guess which "body" and "organization" did "honor" to the Banner.

However, on the front page of the same issue of the Banner there is a report of a joint meeting of the Aurora high school and public school boards, and a statement to the effect that a "fuller picture of their organizations" will be published in the Banner in the month of November. The chairman of the joint meeting was Dr. E. J. Henderson.

No Invitation
In two years of local reporting and writing we have not once been asked to attend either a meeting of the high or public school board. We have in that time written more than one editorial pressing for information from these "bodies" in the public interest.

No attempt whatever has been made by either the chairman of the high school or the public school to inform the public through the press on the nature of their activities. When the chairman of the high school came to council for a debenture loan of $600,000 he was asked by Councillor Davies for the name of the contractor of the new high school building. The chairman told a full council he couldn't remember the contractor's name; and the name has never in fact been published.

The chairman of the public school and his board bought land on Kennedy St. at a price of $1,400 just before the 1950 budget was to be announced. The purchase was made known only on budget night, and the budget had to be held over for two weeks, as the records show. The land has never been used for the building of a school and it is unlikely that it ever will be so used.

We have some questions to ask presently in Aurora News Page of both the high and the public school boards.

Are They Afraid?
Meanwhile he it noted that although several hundred copies (and we mean several hundred) of the Era and Express and Aurora News Page are bought regularly at newsstands every week in Aurora, we have not once been asked to attend any meetings of the school boards. What are they afraid of? Are they afraid that we shall tell the citizens of Aurora too much?

with what they get. They have gotten Mayor Bell.

Let The People Know
The town solicitor advised that the zoning by-law should not receive a third reading until the citizens were made fully aware of its contents. He urged that its contents be publicized. Questioning the process of continuing to read the by-law, with the purpose of giving a second statutory reading, he asked what use it was to pass a by-law and then afterwards to ask for clarification of its contents?

The zoning by-law, he said, was full of pitfalls. And one thing we would like to know is this: Where did the by-law come from? Who wrote it up. That was a question that no member of council asked.

What will happen to it now we cannot forecast. We do know, however, the best thing that could happen to it. That would be to tear it up and put it in the wastepaper basket.

That's How It Goes
Thus the process goes on of multiplying orders and regulations for the citizens of Aurora, while at the same time the people who pass these restrictions don't themselves adhere to them. The whole setup is fantastic and what is done is no longer even a joke.

It was pathetic to see a group of men trying to discuss a zoning by-law the language of which was utterly beyond them. It was undoubtedly a product of a department of the provincial government, but no questions were asked where it came from.

Apart from the passing of the by-law restricting the elections' time, nothing definite was done at this more than four hours' special meeting, which cost the ratepayers money. The representatives from King and Whitchurch townships will have to come back again for another meeting over the fire services, as there were no figures ready for them to work on. And that is how it goes.

the building by-laws in regard to the hydro building.

Councillor Fielding objected to any discussion taking place on this matter. Mrs. Fielding (who formerly moved a successful motion that the hydro building be made to conform with the building by-laws and finally voted against her own motion) said the hydro building matter was now closed.

On a motion by councillor Fielding, seconded by councillor Gundy, it was resolved to take no notice of the letter from the board of trade, and that it be filed. This motion was carried, with councillors Corbett and Jones voting against the motion.

Council's Error
A letter was read from the Bell Telephone company in which it was asserted that a resolution of council (moved by councillor Davies) at an earlier meeting was in error in stating that the company had had three increases as affecting Aurora. There had been no increase, the letter stated, as affecting Aurora since 1927, which had been well treated.

A suggestion that an apology be expressed to the Bell company, made by councillor Fielding, elicited a remark from the mayor that they had better go slow on offering apologies.

It was finally agreed that the letter be handed over to councillor Davies for his attention.

Anti-Noise By-Law
A discussion took place in regard to the anti-noise by-law formerly asked for on a motion by councillors Fielding and Gundy. The town solicitor pointed out that it was extremely difficult to define "noise" in relation to a by-law.

An anti-noise by-law concerned with a municipality not named was read by the mayor, which was found to relate to other matters besides noise.

After further discussion it was resolved to hand the matter over to the police committee.

Court Of Revision
Discussion took place on the constitution of a court of revision to deal with assessment appeals, which drew from reeve Cook the remark that he had every reason to appeal himself.

Finally it was resolved to leave this matter over to the next meeting of council.

Parking Lots, Etc.
Some discussion took place concerning the provision of additional parking lots. Council resolved that the town solicitor be instructed to proceed in the matter of the expropriation of land west of Yonge street.

The mayor introduced the matter of annexation of land in King township, and this question was relegated to a committee to be appointed by the mayor.

Councillor Corbett reported that an offer of purchase had been made for the old fire truck and equipment, and this matter was left in the hands of the fire department to deal with according to its discretion.

Council adjourned at 11:30 p.m. (No member of council raised the matter of Mayor Bell's overruling of council's unanimous resolution of July, 1950, which permitted the press to refer to the file of council business in the interests of the tax-payers, which was fully dealt with in last week's issue of Aurora News Page. Further comment on council meeting of October 1 will appear in "Council Sideights", in our next issue, Ed.)

is a member of the board of trade. While on council he served on a number of committees, gaining important knowledge for future service for his native town.

He is a member of the Sons of England benefit society and was its president for two years. He is also a member of the group committee of the Boy Scouts.

Personal And Business
Don Glass was born on a farm on the site of which St. Andrew's college now stands. Rather more than twelve years ago he married Miss Mae Offord, a sister of John Offord, of Midland. They have two children, Don and Nancy Jean.

In his business life, Don Glass has recently become a partner in the well-known Cousins dairies, and as an outcome of new arrangements that have been made in that organization he is vice-president of the company, of which Mr. Archie Cousins is president and Mr. Fred Cousins secretary-treasurer. Besides his vice-presidency, Don Glass is also sales manager for the company.

It was chiefly because of his assumption of new business responsibilities that he retired from municipal life last year, with the promise that when possible he would offer himself again for council election.

Should Seek Election
There are a great many people in Aurora who are saying that Don Glass should offer himself for municipal service at the forthcoming elections, and stand for the office of mayor. He has all the qualifications for making a success of the highest local office.

He has youth, energy and vision. His sincerity is beyond question. He would handle business expeditiously, without fear or favor. He would stimulate those serving under him. He would give dignity to municipal affairs. His presence at the head of the table would inspire public confidence.

Should Don Glass yield to the pressure of his supporters, and allow his name to stand as a candidate for the office of mayor at the next municipal election.

Besides other offices held, he we know of no other in Aurora who could defeat him. His election as mayor of Aurora would amount to a certainty.

It is the opinion of many people that he should, even at some personal sacrifice, make the decision to return to municipal life at the earliest possible moment, and give Aurora what it so sorely needs at this present time, namely, good government.

If you were a bee, you could, as bees do, use your wings as a fan to cool the house. But while bees are busy ventilating, they can't be gathering honey. So hives with aluminum roofs (ten to fifteen degrees cooler) make bees more efficient. Some day aluminum houses may do the same for housewives.

Aluminum is an ideal insulator for homes—and homes. This is one of a dozen reasons why the demand for aluminum is growing so rapidly, and why we are building new plants and powerhouses to make more aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

The Editor: Your editorials for years past on conservation I feel have done a great work in informing your readers of the urgency of all forms of conservation and the fruit of your efforts can be seen in the various conservation schemes now under consideration.

One that I would like to see you champion would be the saving of Fairy Lake and the rough land to the south of it, bounded on the east by the railway. In order to do it properly, land should be acquired by both the township and the town of Newmarket. If it were replanted with trees and the pasturing of cattle stopped, in order to give the small trees a chance, both the township and the town of Newmarket would have an ever increasing asset which would give the youngsters of the future a place to view some of the beauties of nature.

They are there now — today, Sunday, I walked south from Water Street on the railway right of way and in approximately two minutes saw the following birds, a blue heron, a woodcock, an American bittern, two kingfishers and a number of smaller birds. They were all looking for food in a more or less casual way and I presume found it.

The only one actually seen in the process of obtaining any food was the kingfisher, and he made some beautiful dives.

I felt how fortunate we were in having this charming little spot right at our door but I also realized that its beauty and charm could be destroyed forever in very short order if we do not wake up to its value and save it.

Prospect Ave., Newmarket.

COCKBURN - BLIGHT

GLEADALL - EVANS

In a double-ring ceremony at Trinity United church on September 16, Lois Muriel Blight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Blight, became the bride of Donald Howard Cockburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cockburn, all of Newmarket. Seasonal flowers formed the setting, and Rev. Henry Cotton officiated, assisted by Rev. M. J. Aiken. Mr. Norman Hurre, organist, accompanied the soloist, Mr. Charles Boyd, who sang "Because" and "Through the Years."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown in formal style, with chauntilly lace bodice, featuring a scallop neckline, and very full skirt of nylon net over taffeta. Her jewellery was a string of pearls, and her bouquet was white gladioli, carnations and roses.

Matron of honor was Jean Blight, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mary Bothwell was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of periwinkle blue, made in bouffant style, and carried bouquets of pink gladioli, pink roses, carnations and blue baby tumblers.

Gordon Cockburn was best man for his brother, and Grant M. Blight and Douglas Cockburn were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception for 70 guests was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother received in a navy gown with navy accessories and pink rose corsage. Mrs. Cockburn also wore navy, and pink accessories and corsage of matching carnations.

The bride and groom left on a trip to Eastern and Northern Ontario, Mrs. Cockburn wearing a powder blue suit and navy accessories. On their return they will reside in Newmarket.

Out of town guests at the wedding were from Guelph, Hamilton, Morriston, Barrie, Shanty Bay, Bolton and Toronto.

ROSE - OGDEN

In a ceremony on September 22, at Aurora Gospel church, which was decorated with gladioli in seasonal colors for the event, Shirley Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ogden, Stouffville, became the bride of Donald F. Rose, Mount Albert. The soloist, Mr. Donald Gilbraith, was accompanied by Mrs. Lottie Grimshaw at the organ, and Rev. L. C. Coupland officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in satin and net, with matching cape, and a veil of net caught to a beaded headdress. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Elva Yakeley, chose blue taffeta and carried harmonizing roses. Mr. Morley Rose was best man for his brother, and Gordon Yakeley and Murray Harrison were ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Ogden received in grey printed silk with pink rose corsage, and the groom's mother assisted in a wine and black ensemble and similar corsage.

For the honeymoon to northern Ontario, the bride wore a blue costume. On their return they will live in Mount Albert.

Guests were present at the wedding from Cannington, Toronto, Mimico, Queensville, Stouffville, Mount Albert, and Newmarket.

WATTS - SMITH

On Sept. 29, in a setting of gladioli and fern at Trinity United Church, Newmarket, Miss Gwendolyn Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanley Smith, was united in marriage to Stanley Alvin Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Watts, Toronto. Rev. J. M. Aiken officiated and the soloist, Mr. Donald Gardham, of Toronto, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mr. A. Hurre at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in ivory faille taffeta and chauntilly lace, made in formal style, with fingertip veil caught to a cap of matching lace. She carried a cascade of gladioli centered with an orchid.

The attendants, Mrs. Donna Smith, matron of honor, and Miss Judith Earle and Miss Marilyn Kyle, bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of bronze-toned faille taffeta in ballerina length, with full skirts and off-the-shoulder necklines. Their flowers were colonial nosegays of gladioli, petunias, tulle roses and bronze mums.

Miss Lynda Lee Watts, niece of the groom, was the flower girl, in a long gown of mayflower pink faille taffeta, and carrying a colonial nosegay.

Mr. Bruce Miller, Toronto, was best man, and Donald Smith and Robert Tremaine ushered.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Greystones, Aurora. The bride's mother received in French blue with matching accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses, and Mrs. Watts assisted, gowned in wood green with harmonizing accents and corsage of tulle roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Watt left on a trip to New York City via T.C.A., the bride wearing a pale pink suit, grey kid fur jacket, navy accessories, and orchid corsage. On their return they will live in Toronto.

Bessie Gillie Evans, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall C. Evans, Holland Landing, became the bride of Wm. Frank Gleadall, son of Mrs. Gleadall, Coldwater, and the late Mr. Wm. Gleadall, in a ceremony on September 15 in the United church, Holland Landing. Gladioli and dahlias decorated the church, and Rev. F. G. MacTavish officiated. Mrs. J. Scott, accompanied by Mrs. E. Dutton, sang "O Perfect Love" and "Through the Years".

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin, and fingertip veil of imported lace. She carried pink and white roses.

Her only attendant was Miss Janet Shupe, Reg. N., who wore a turquoise silk crepe dress and had a bouquet of tulle roses. Mr. James D. Gleadall was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Ronald Riley and Mr. Drew Gleadall.

A reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's mother wore navy faille. Mrs. Gleadall received in a gown of printed silk.

For the motor trip to Northern Ontario, the bride travelled in a royal blue costume with navy accessories. They will reside at R. R. 1, Coldwater.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered Swiss organdy over taffeta, and a matching cap held her fingertip tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white mums.

Miss Yvonne Wright was maid of honor, gowned in yellow organza over taffeta, with mauve gladioli bouquet. Miss Doreen Abbott and Miss Carol Fletcher, bridesmaids, were dressed alike in mauve organza and taffeta, their flowers contrasting yellow gladioli.

Needlecraft News

by Pauline Roy

CANADIAN children have much to be proud of in their wearing apparel. They lead the fashion in wool and knitted garments. The wool is manufactured and the patterns are designed in Canada for the happy, growing youngsters who live in this land of snow and sunshine. Active and healthy children must be comfortable and warm. That is why so many mothers plan on many knitted garments when they are choosing their children's clothes.

Need plenty of practical clothes.

School Days
School days are here again and many little fellows are just beginning. They are filled with the excitement of a brand new world full of new interests and new friends. Daily their minds absorb more learning and they are launched in the sea of knowledge. There's reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, history, drawing, music, games and sports. A great deal has been added nowadays to keep the children happy and eager to spend their days in school. It is no longer the dismal grind it used to be. Because of the increased activity in school and at play, the little lads

Attention All Boys

Here's a manly sweater any boy is proud to wear. It has such a smart appearance and there is no pull or restriction with the comfortable raglan sleeves. It's made of heavy double knitting wool which works up quickly. Bright red and light grey is the color combination used here but you may, of course, choose any colors you wish. Red is good because of its association with fire engines, dump trucks, Indians and all the daring, romantic things little boys think about.

Directions for knitting this little boy's cardigan come in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. If you would like to have knitting instructions for making it, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to this paper and ask for Leaflet CW-24, LITTLE BOYS' TWO-TONE CARDIGAN.

Sale Of Roots, Bulbs Feature Of Horticultural Soc. Meet

An informative and interesting talk, a movie showing the growth processes of plants and a sale of perennial roots and bulbs at 40 percent of nursery prices will comprise the program of the first open meeting of the fall season to be held by the Newmarket Horticultural Society. The meeting will be in the Agricultural Board rooms tomorrow evening, at 8 p.m.

"The Perennial Bed in Fall" is the topic of the talk to be given by Alfred V. Hall, Toronto. This talk has been timed so that gardening enthusiasts may have an opportunity to put into practice the many helpful pointers Mr. Hall will give.

The guest speaker has been an advisor on landscape matters in Ontario for 25 years. In this capacity he has dealt both with private individuals and park commissions.

A motion picture, "God in Creation," is the second item on the program. This outstanding film has been made available to the society through the co-operation of the local V.L.A. office.

The sale of perennial roots, bulbs and other garden stock will be made possible through the active assistance of the society's members. Those who have excess material in their gardens are requested to bring it to this meeting to sell at 40 percent of nursery prices.

All garden stock must be marked as to variety and price. If possible such material should be at the Agricultural Board rooms between 7:30 and 7:45 tomorrow evening. By this sale of excess garden stock, material which otherwise might be discarded will be made available to local gardeners at reduced prices.

The program is under the direction of Mrs. John Kudelka, program chairman. An interesting evening has been planned and a cordial invitation is extended to the general public.

TULIP PAMPHLET

Flower lovers will be interested to know that a very timely pamphlet has been published by the Ontario Agricultural College on the growing of tulips. This concise outline covers location, soils, planting, treatment after flowering and varieties. Anyone wishing a copy should write to W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, Newmarket, or to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and ask for circular A-101.

THE HOMEMAKERS

Aids For Jelly Makers

Q.—What are the characteristics of a good jelly? A.—A good jelly is clear and transparent; it is firm enough to hold its shape when unmoulded and cut; it is tender, not tough or gummy; it has the fruit flavor characteristic of its kind.

Q.—What three ingredients are necessary for jelly-making? A.—Pectin, acid and sugar are necessary in the correct proportions.

Q.—Which fruits make good jelly? A.—Fruits which contain large amounts of pectin and acid make good jelly. Examples of these are sour apples, crabapples, cranberries, currants, gooseberries, grapes and sour plums. Most other fruits are lacking in either pectin or acid, but may be combined with fruits having high pectin and high acid content.

Q.—How ripe should fruit be when made into jelly? A.—A mixture of about equal parts of slightly underripe fruit, which contains more pectin, and fully ripe fruit, which has better flavor, is considered best.

Q.—How can you test for pectin? A.—Boil the fruit juice for three minutes. Then measure 1 teaspoon fruit juice and one teaspoon rubbing alcohol into a small dish. Blend quickly together and let stand 30 seconds. If a jelly-like mass or clot is formed, the juice contains sufficient pectin. The sugar may then be added.

Q.—What determines the amount of sugar to be used in jelly-making? A.—The amount of pectin determines the amount of sugar. Three-quarters of a cup of sugar is allowed for each cup of extracted juice, unless a heavy clot is formed in the pectin test. The heavy clot shows the juice is rich in pectin, and one cup of sugar for each cup of extracted juice should be allowed.

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

PLEASURE — WHERE WE FIND IT

Wasn't it Shakespeare who said we could find tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in everything?

Well, within the last few weeks, we have had one or two things which have added to the sum of our pleasure in life. One was "The Great Caruso."

We are not regular movie goers, but when we find one that pleases us, we make the most of it—witness "The Great Caruso"—we went twice in Newmarket and once in Aurora!

For Archie and I, grand opera occupies a place in our hearts from which no other form of entertainment can ever hope to dislodge it. Nearly every song that Lanza sang we had studied and in the original language, so you may know what it was to us to hear them sung as they were. The whole picture was one of the few completely satisfying performances of its kind that we have seen. After the first few scenes we were not listening to and looking at Mario Lanza and Ann Blyth. We were living with Enrico Caruso and Dorothy Benjamin.

What a picture it was of the public and private life of a great singer—what it means of hard, hard work, sacrifice and worry which is so often hidden behind the glamor and adulation of the pulpit.

There was a time when opera only meant singing but in Caruso's time acting was becoming a "must." A tenor, for some unknown reason, is always cast as a lover and it was becoming increasingly evident that the public wanted to see a love scene, not just listen to ardent love addresses to the audience or the conductor of the orchestra.

Of course, as the picture plainly showed, tenors had very rarely any love for the supposed lady of their devotion. Grand opera sopranos, as a rule at that time, felt that part of their hold on their public was to display a temperament or maybe temper to be a better word, that would have put a fish wife to shame. That time is happily past but Caruso had it to contend with. I do not think that anyone will ever want to sing it again. Something was in it that only greatness can give. The scene at the midnight mass where Lanza sang "Ave Maria" was one of the most beautiful in the whole picture.

The little lad who sang with him, homely but so intent, had a voice like an angel. The last scene in the picture was a marvellous piece of acting by Lanza and Louise Hagar. I came out with wet eyes and I was not the only one.

Someone objected to all the singing being in foreign tongues. I could not see it detracted from the picture. If we went to the Metropolitan we'd get the same—and what a scene that same opera house made. I've always wanted to go there and now that we've glimpsed it, we want to go more than ever.

Another wonderful piece of acting was Ann Blyth's reaction when Lanza asked her to marry him. The stunned look of surprise and the gradual awakening to the reality of the proposal was rather wonderful.

We had read Dorothy Caruso's life of her husband and were glad that the picture followed it as consistently as it did. That such a picture has appeal for everybody one can guess by the line-ups each night. I know one little girl—she is seven, who sat on the edge of her chair absolutely oblivious to everything and everyone and who, when one song began, cried out, "Aunt Hilda, it's Aida, it's Celeste Aida!"

But why is it that nearly always there is something to disturb when one is practically lost to everything but one thing. One night, just when we were leaning forward not to miss a word or gesture, up got first one boy in front of us and went out to return laden with something to eat and just as he sat down up got another. We could neither see nor hear for minutes. It seems to me that courtesy in public places should be taught in our schools if it is omitted in our homes. But there are thorns about the sweetest roses; some can only say "Give us more pictures like 'The Great Caruso.'"

Intended to write about our "Beauty" but space will not permit—so until next week.

Not Worried by Crop in West

While the crop prospects in parts of the Canadian west present a gloomy picture for some, Mr. Harry Bovair of Harris, Sask., says in 1942 he recalls his grain crop remained out all winter and was stooked threshed in mid-April. The yield was good considering everything. That year harvest weather was very bad. Apparently there is always some hope left.

Back From Alberta

Sgt. David Judd spent a few days with his wife and family at King recently. He had come from the military camp at Wainwright, Alta., which has broken up for winter months. Sgt. Judd is posted at Camp Borden for an officer's course in wireless. He is quite proficient in this work, having had considerable experience on sets in Germany during the last war, but present qualifications demand refresher and advanced courses now. Sgt. Judd will be able to spend some time at his home now that he is within easy reach of King.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bishop of Strange, their daughter Sadie, and sons, Alex of Wilby and Henry of Toronto, were guests at the wedding of their son, William Leonard Bishop, and Dorothy Doreen Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Gray, Whitchurch, held at Mount Pisgah United church a week ago Saturday. The reception was held at Lawrence Folliott's home, "Summit View," Yonge St., following the ceremony. The groom's two brothers, Eddie and Gary Bishop, serving in overseas forces in Korea, were sent invitations which they would most likely receive after the wedding took place. Several showers were held for the bride before her marriage, one at Barrie, one in Toronto at the home of Henry Bishop, the groom's brother, and another at the Gray home. Bill and his wife are on their honeymoon and upon their return will live in an apartment in the Gray home.

church:

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kee are back from holidays at New York city and Long Island. They left King on Saturday morning and were therefore unable to attend the Bishop-Gray wedding. Bill Bishop is employed by Mr. Kee in the plastering trade and the Kees are taking advantage of his honeymoon for their own vacation.

Makes Prize Cakes

Miss Dorothy Pressly, New Scotland, has the "know how" for baking cakes. At Schomberg fair recently, she won two firsts and one second in these classes in addition to firsts for a black velvet cushion decorated with colored wool flowers, canned corn and apple jelly. In the cake contest she won the $10 Hayhoe special for a light layer cake decorated with white coconut frosting, and the prize for second light cake. Her chocolate cake gave her second place. These were made with Hayhoe pastry flour. The special cake was claimed by Mr. Hayhoe where it went to his Woodbridge home to be served to special friends. For four successive years Miss Pressly has been a consistent winner chiefly in first-class rating. She uses a wood stove and has never had a failure. The cake classes at Schomberg were quite heavily contested.

Notice of King Township announcing its proposal to "close up and dispose of part of East Street" as shown on the village plan of King City has set many wondering where this street is located. Apparently it lies west of Fleetwood Motors, bordering the railway station. These lots on the plan are said to have been incorrectly numbered.

Flowers Cabled for Anniversary
Flowers cabled from England were received by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dent in good time for their 24th wedding anniversary on September 24. They were gold and bronze means sent by Mrs. L. Robinson, Doncaster, Middle England, and were delivered by a Toronto florist. The enclosed card said: "With all my love and best wishes for Fred and Dorothy." Mrs. Robinson is an old friend of Mrs. Dent's family. The bouquet was a replica of the flowers carried by the two bridesmaids, when Dorothy Glew became the bride of Fred Dent in St. Peter's Anglican church at Stockton-on-Tees in 1927.

The couple came to Canada in 1929, because the bride had always had a wish to live here. She was the only one of her family to settle out of England and has no regrets about the move. Her husband is of the same opinion now. They first lived in the farm home of the late J. T. Burns at Kinghorn. Afterward they moved across the road to the Wilbert Burns farm where they lived 12 years. Always a farmer, Fred helped on the Burns farm and his wife would assist the mother, Mrs. John Burns. They lived in a cottage on the farm and here their only child, Freda, was born 16 years ago. In 1935, the Dents moved to King, buying a house which they moved to its present location on Main St., remodelling it with all modern facilities. For the past 18 years Mrs. Dent has given a home to children of the Protestant Children's Home. A nursemaid before her marriage, she has always been interested in their care.

On a Friday recently Mr. and Mrs. Dent attended a dance given by Delta-Vand Aircraft Recreation Club. As a solo couple they danced to the "Anniversary Waltz," and the orchestra played Fred's favorite song, "My Blue Heaven," in honor of their anniversary.

Parcels from the families in Franch of Scarboro called to remember the occasion. Fifteen years had elapsed since the Dent's had seen them and they were agreeably surprised to receive them.

Attending University

Donald Rawlings, graduate of Aurora high school, has been accepted on the enrolment of the University of Toronto where he will take an honor course in social and philosophical studies which requires four years. He will be in residence at Wycliffe College. The best wishes of the community go with him for success in advanced education.

Toxoiding Scene Very Peaceful

Dr. J. L. Urquhart, M.O.H., administered toxoid to pupils of King school and a half dozen of pre-school children last week. Needles were given for combined whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and boosters for these communicable diseases to many who had taken the combined toxoids at an earlier date. All was peaceful on the scene as the children lined up for the job which took the doctor about one hour.

Enjoys Camp Life

"I was in love with life at Blue Mountain camp, Georgian Bay, because the counsellors are so kind and all the children are so happy there," said Beverley Barker, aged 10, one of 40 or more crippled children to attend the Collingwood camp for the last three weeks in August. "My second summer there, I was able to take part in activities much better than last year. When you see some of the children having to be moved about in their wheel chairs, it made me glad my father has done so much for me to make my limbs stronger," said Beverley, the daughter of W. E. Barker of King.

Each day's program is well organized, filled with interesting things to do. "We have comfortable sleeping cabins and are encouraged to make our beds nicely, keep our clothes tidy and take part in games, swimming, crafts, and singings. Some of the children are only able to be held in the pool for a while, but almost everyone has something to do. I could not go in the water because the stitches were just out of my fractured elbow. However, once I did and I fell kerflop. It was fun."

Beverley liked shell craft, and reading books from the well stocked library. She liked the story-telling hour and liked to "do everything her counsellors expected of her."

There are very few children who are disobedient. "They all want to do the right thing, although I will say one girl cried nearly every night. She was homesick. I only felt lonely two nights."

The closing day of the camp is a thriller. There is a banquet and the counsellors put on a skit. "Everyone gets prettied up for the party. The counsellors do our fingernails, fuss up our hair, and we have lots of fun." When the parting hour came, one of the counsellors cried and everyone was sorry to break camp. While there, Beverley met some who had attended last summer, and she chatted around with Betty Pringle. Lois Hollis was there too. She was in the Hospital for Sick Children with Beverley last year.

Plan W.A. Bazaar

Eversley W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Wade on Tuesday afternoon. The business session of the meeting dealt chiefly with plans for the W.A. bazaar to be held on Nov. 2 in King United church basement.

Impressive Harvest Service

Observance of the Harvest Festival service at All Saints' Anglican church on Sunday was very gratifying to the filled for the evening service which was preached by the Rev. J. D. Paterson of Woodbridge. The music was especially fine. The anthem, "He Shall Feed His Sheep Like a Shepherd," from the "Messiah" by Handel, was sung in soprano and alto solos by Shirley Rawlings and Freda Dent. Donald Rawlings presided at the pipe organ. The church was effectively decorated with tokens of a bountiful harvest. A cross of wheat heads was suspended from the chancel ceiling, and there were wheat sprays at each pew. Most of the gifts were taken the following day to an east Toronto church. Some of the sick at King were taken flowers after the service on Sunday evening. There were 30 from St. Stephen's church, Maple.

Marie Wilson Guest at Showers

Miss Marie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wilson of King has been honored with several showers. She will become the bride of James Phillips Adje, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adje, Toronto, on Saturday, Oct. 13, at her wedding in King United church. A month ago she was entertained in Toronto by her office head and staff of the Palm Olive Peet Co. where she is employed in the tabulating department. She was given a miscellaneous shower.

Last Friday evening, Mrs. Harold Kirby, a cousin, entertained cousins and family relatives at her home at a miscellaneous shower. In Toronto also was a shower given by Mrs. Pidgeon, who entertained the neighbors of the Adje family. On Wednesday evening, Miss Marion Kelley and Miss Mary Jones Walker, school chums of Marie, chose the home of Mrs. Albert Kelley for a shower of lovely gifts from a wide circle of friends.

Business Develops New Branch

The first catering service in this district was given by King City Bakery at a prominent King Township wedding last Saturday for 200 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Bob McLeod were assisted by several local women who were supplied with dainty caps and aprons. Mrs. McLeod, who has already earned the reputation for excellent home baked food, finds this branch of the business very interesting. It was the first experience of this kind for the McLeods.

King Cubs Resume

Activity of King Cubs has begun, the first meeting held last week. The program for the coming term will include crafts once a month, a feature that should prove useful to the group. Boys must be eight years old to qualify for training. The official beginning was made this week, Wednesday. Regular nights are Wednesday of each week in the basement of All Saints church. Mrs. Hood, who is a district cub master for Central York, will have other duties to perform throughout the season.

Temperature Drops in School

Pupils of King school were dismissed last Friday because of the low temperature of classrooms. High, cold winds took the thermometer down to 54. The new furnace had not been completed and it was pretty chilly in the school all week. Sweaters and coats were worn most of the time. However on Monday the furnace was operating.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunter enjoyed a motor vacation last month, travelling to Ottawa and in Quebec Province. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hall have come back from a two weeks' vacation in the U.S. They visited an aunt in New Jersey, motored to New York City where they took in Radio City, its high tower, and took an interesting tour.

The opening meeting of Teston church Fellowship Group was held on Monday night. Charlie Robson spoke on a thanksgiving theme.

Miss Freeda Farley will be the speaker at Laskay United Y.P.U. this coming Friday night.

Local Amateur Wrestlers Deserve A Hand

Public support to the October canvass for King City Amateur Wrestling Club deserves a good hand. Matt Bell, treasurer, and coach Bob McLeod will campaign for funds in the very near future in order to keep the treasury built up to promote this club whose objectives are clean sport, good sportsmanship, honesty, courtesy and physical fitness. Organized over two years, the boys are coached by Bob McLeod, an experienced leader in wrestling and other forms of Canadian sports.

The road has not been smooth for the boys. First they trained in the old ice-house. Later training quarters were found in the Lake Marie and King Athletic club rooms where, with the help of the club members and parents, a satisfactory room was put into shape. There is more work to be done yet, painting the interior and lining the dressing room. To become a member, each boy pays $1 fee a year but it requires $2.50 a member to carry the club in providing equipment, heat, light, etc. So far all expenses have been met, a canvass having been made once before.

K.C.W.C. Represented At Federation Annual

On Sunday, Sept. 30, coach Bob McLeod was a delegate from King City Wrestling Club to the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Wrestling Federation held in the West End

"Y", Toronto. The report of the local club was received with much interest.

King City was invited to compete in the first Federation show this season in Toronto West End Y. Oct. 27. April 11 and 12, 1952, was set for the Ontario championships in Toronto. The city novice tournament was changed to an Ontario novice, to be held early in December.

Among interesting features of a holiday trip to England taken by Miss Julia Jarvis, was the comfort and relaxation of her voyage there and back aboard a freighter of the Manchester line, her reunion with her two sister and the Cavanagh family at Manchester, the Festival of Britain and the kindness and politeness of the people.

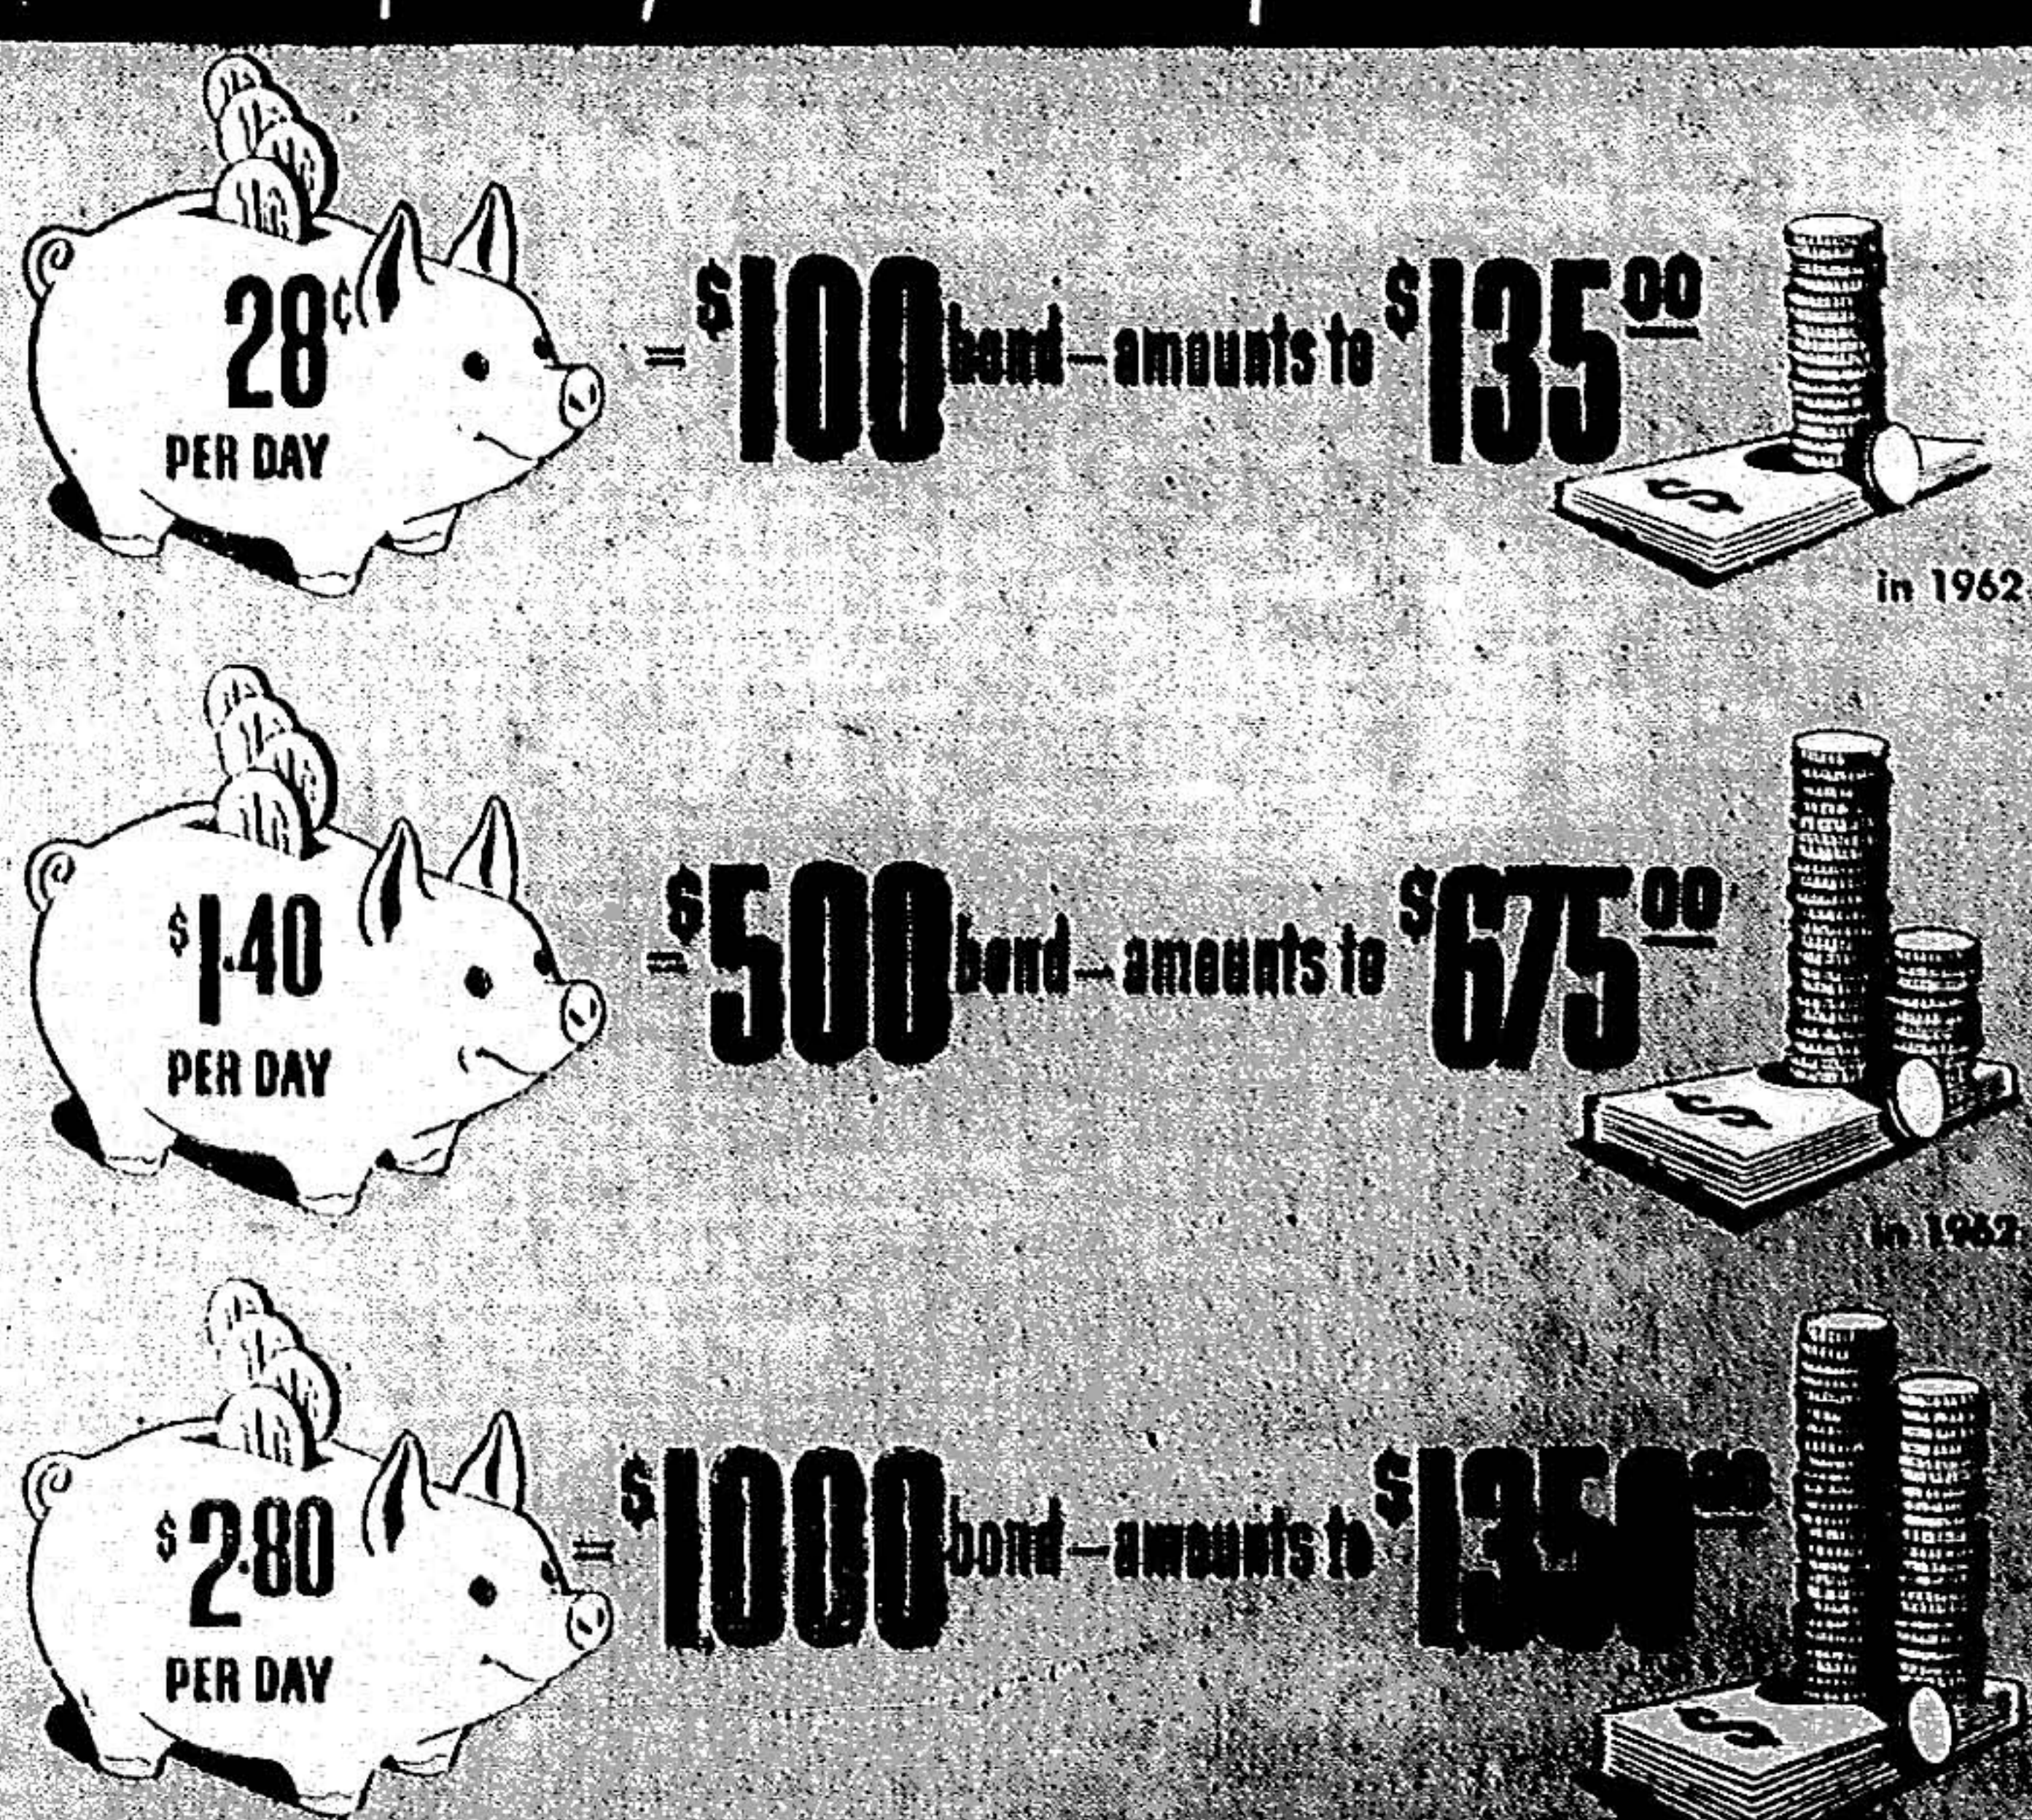

"There is comfort and enjoyment aboard a freighter equal to that of a large passenger ship. Service is more satisfying than the Queen Mary has to offer at far less cost," said Miss Jarvis.
